Man Pinned Under Car

ESSEX — A 20-year-old Dexter man is in serious condition at Dexter Memorial Hospital today after being pinned beneath his wrecked automobile for nearly four hours this morning.

The mishap occurred, the highway patrol said, at 2:30 a.m., two miles north of Essex, on route FF when a 1960 Ford driven by Wilbur Leon Gaines ran into a parked pickup truck. The patrol said Gaines apparently had gone to sleep at the wheel.

A man living near where the accident occurred said he got up at 6 a.m. and heard Gaines calling for help. He said he called the Dexter Rescue Squad, who took the injured man to the hospital.

Utility Rate Warning

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Price Commission today announced new, sharpened guidelines for utility rates but warned the nation that big increases will be necessary to pay for the service it wants.

The regulations put limits on the rate of return that utilities may realize from increased rates, and added provisions requiring them to take into account increased productivity and to absorb labor costs that increase more than 5.5 per cent.

Also, the commission made provisions to hand over final authority on utility rate increases to existing regulatory bodies that come up with acceptable anti-inflationary policies.

Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. said the regulations would require reductions in some requested rate increases but not in others. He had no estimate of how much utility rates might go up under the new rules.

But he warned, "We urge the consumers of the nation to realize that when you demand service, you have to pay for it. You don't get something for nothing."

He said that four days of public hearings on utility rates made it clear that some large increases are going to be necessary in order to continue "adequate, safe and pollution-free services."

Announcement of the new regulations means the temporary freeze on rates of privately owned utilities will end on or before March 25. Grayson said the commission would take final action on all of the 116 increases before it within 10 days.

On another subject, Grayson attacked Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz for statements "damaging to the stabilization program." Butz has been applauding rising farm prices and vowing to fight any attempts to control them. Raw agricultural products currently aren't under price guidelines.

Grayson, asked about Butz' statements, said he was so disturbed by them that he had typed out a statement before today's news conference.

Reading it, he said that farmers should be expected to make the same sacrifices as everybody else in the economy and should not expect any special catch-up. "The name of the game of catch-up is inflation," Grayson said.

No Races in Puxico

PUXICO — Thursday at 4:30 p.m. was the deadline for candidates filing for city office with City Clerk Martha Ware. The election will be April 4.

Filing for police judge was Dale Sifford, ward one alderman, James Ross who was police judge, resigned.

Filing for ward one alderman was Eddie Sifford.

Filing for ward two alderman was incumbent Junior Elbert Howard.

Port Shutdown Possibility

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A shutdown of all U.S. ports loomed as a possibility today after the Pay Board trimmed a wage increase won by West Coast longshoremen in ending a 134-day dock strike.

There was no immediate comment from Harry Bridges' West Coast International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union Thursday after the Pay Board in Washington lopped about one-fourth of the ILWU's negotiated increases.

Nor was there comment from Bridges' East and Gulf Coast counterpart, President Thomas W. Gleason of the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Union.

But Bridges told his 13,000member union on Feb. 24 that the ILWU and the ILA had agreed that they would join in a nationwide dock strike if the Pay Board touched wage increases won by either union.

The Feb. 16 contract between the ILWU and the West Coast employers' Pacific Maritime Association contains language which permits the ILWU to take strike action within 30 days if the Pay Board refuses approval of the contract.

The Pay Board's staff reported that West Coast stevedoring firms had saved some $1 billion in reduced labor costs through increased productivity since the union agreed to new work rules in 1960.

Nevertheless, business and public members of the Pay Board outvoted labor members 8 to 5 in rejecting the new ILWU-PMA contract as inflationary.

The Pay Board said the new ILWU contract provides for a 16 per cent increase in wages and overtime and a 4.9 per cent increase in employer-funded pension and welfare benefits during the first year of the new 18-month pact.

It voted 8 to 6 to approve only a 10 per cent increase in wages and to allow the 4.9 per cent increase in fringe benefits to stand. The 14.9 per cent total is still higher than the 8.9 per cent called for in the board's standard guidelines.

"The extra allowances were made in recognition of the necessity of producing the income and retirement security which has helped to foster efficient industry production leading to significantly greater output with a continuously declining work force," Pay Board Chairman George H. Boldt said in announcing the decision.

Under the pay provisions of the pact, the West Coast dock workers were to receive a 72cent hourly wage increase, retroactive to Dec. 25, to bring the hourly scale to $5. An additional 40 cents an hour was due July 1.

Glass Pickup On Saturday

Steve Sikes, Jaycee ecology co-chairman, announced today that a glass collection will be held Saturday at the Kingsway Plaza Mall from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Sikes said that the last collection was successful because of glass brought in by the Canalou 4-H club. Collections are held every other week.

Glass can be taken to the Sheltered Workshop near the Sikeston Airport at anytime during the week.

Airport Head Appointed

JEFFERSON CITY — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes yesterday named Henry J. Elmendorf, a St. Charles businessman, as chairman of the newly created Missouri - St. Louis Metropolitan Airport Authority.

Hearnes earlier had named Thomas J. Baker of Essex to head the authority, but withdrew that appointment when it was opposed by St. Louis area Senators.

Baker continues as a regular commission member. St. Louis and St. Louis County will have three members each on the commission and St. Charles, Franklin and Jefferson counties will each have one member.

The authority was created to enable Missouri to compete with Illinois for the site of a second major airport for the metropolitan area.

Block Busing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon urged Congress today to temporarily block any new court orders for pupil busing and to consider promptly longer-range legislation aimed at narrowing the gap between rich and poor schools.

In an 8,000-word special message, Nixon called for a moratorium on busing orders that would expire on July 1, 1973—or sooner should Congress act on broader legislation at some earlier date.

On his own, Nixon directed the Justice Department to "intervene in selected cases where the lower courts have gone beyond the Supreme Court's requirements in ordering busing."

Acting Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst told newsmen his staff will review "every open case" involving busing with the aim of urging the lower courts to delay busing orders until Congress acts on the requested moratorium.

Kleindienst said his department "almost certainly" would try to delay busing orders affecting school systems in Richmond, Va., and Denver. He declined to speculate on other likely target cases.

Although Nixon said he favored legislation rather than a constitutional amendment to halt further busing orders, he told Democratic and Republican leaders of Congress at an early morning White House conference that he did not want to discourage consideration of an amendment.

The President said a constitutional amendment would be the only alternative should the courts strike down his requested moratorium as unconstitutional.

Nixon expressed confidence in his special message that the measure would meet constitutional tests. On this score, Kleindienst said "I think there can be no legitimate doubts whatsoever."

In adition to calling for the moratorium, Nixon proposed a new equal educational opportunities law that would channel special federal aid to schools with a large enrollment—over 30 per cent—from poor families.

The amount of aid would total about $2.5 billion and would amount to roughly $300 for each pupil coming from a poor family.

Before sending his message to Capitol Hill, Nixon held an early morning White House conference with the Democratic and Republican leadership of the Senate and House.

The message was a follow-up to a television-radio address Thursday night in which he argued that his proposals "would focus our efforts where they really belong—on better education for all of our children rather than on more busing for some of our children."

In his message to Congress, Nixon argued that his recommendations "would not roll back the Constitution, or undo the great advances that have been made in ending school segregation, or undermine the continuing drive for equal rights."

He said "this administration means what it says about dismantling racial barriers, about opening up jobs and housing and schools and opportunity to all Americans."

School Policies In Book

After nearly a year and a half of work, the policies of the R-6 board of education have been compiled into a book. It was adopted by the board in a unanimous vote.

The document was written when it became apparent to school system officials that it was necessary to reduce confusion as to where the board stood on issues. The committee of board members, administrative staff and faculty, who produced the book, wrote that the material "represents the corporate thinking and philosophy of the entire school district. No one person or small group can be singled out as the primary developer or contributor."

The book will soon be published, according to Sam Harbin, superintendent of education, and will be available for public inspection about July 1.

The book is primarily a compilation of past board policies, state laws and regulations.

The committee did not attempt to change any policies when drawing up the document, although they made a few minor changes. One such change, a rule which stated that a bus driver may not drink alcoholic beverages just before driving, was changed to read he may not drink just before driving or while driving.

Included within the book is the subject of discipline. "The willful violation of the ordinary rules of propriety that govern good society will be treated as a violation of written rules," the committee wrote.

They added that a principal can suspend any student for violation state laws, misbehavior, "or for any other sufficient reason." Corporal punishment (defined as "paddling with a paddle") must be used with restraint and only after other methods of discipline fail, the committee said.

For those with complaints against or involving school personnel, the book details the steps to be followed in airing grievances. The complaint must be registered with the principal or department superintendent in charge of the area in which the complaint originated.

If those complaining are not satisfied, the next step is to request a hearing before the board. If the board agrees to hear the case, a hearing date will be set and persons involved will be invited to testify.

The book lays out a series of codes of conduct for teachers, superintendants and the board itself. Codes of conduct for students at the junior and senior high schools have been announced before and are not superceded.

Summed up, the teacher's code states that teachers must deal justly and impartially with students and aid them regardless of who they are.

The nine- point code for the superintendents could be summed up by saying they must strive to provide the finest education possible and justify the public trust of their position above "any economic or social award."

The 15- point code for the board is a general statement of the philosophy which guides it. The code might be summed up in one of the points, which exhorts each board member to "resist every temptation and outside pressure to use my position as a board member to benefit either myself or any other individual or agency apart from the total interest of the school district."

Marriage Ceremony

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Mr. Magistrate, hand that $10 bill back to the bridegroom.

Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth held today that magistrates, as judges of courts of record can perform marriage ceremonies. But the state Constitution also says:

"No judge or magistrate shall receive any other or additional compensation for any public service . . ."

Danforth said, "In our view, any compensation received for such service regardless of whether it is called a fee or gratuity and whether or not it is voluntary or involuntary constitutes 'additional compensation' within the prohibition of Section 24, Article V of the Constitution."

Purse Strings Tighten On Higher Education

John King

State legislatures no longer have their pocketbooks open for higher education, John King, chairman of the department of higher education at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, said last night.

He spoke to 385 at the spring meeting of the Semo Association of School Administrators and the Semo School Boards Association at the high school cafetorium.

King said legislatures are concerned that perhaps we are running out of tax resources and that other things such as Social Security, highways, and prison reform, deserve the tax dollars more.

Part of the problem for educators, King said is not being able to explain properly just what they are doing. Professors also are producing less in terms of actually working with students.

Also, King said, the legislatures are concerned about disturbances, drugs, and morality on the campuses. Actually, he said, studies show that college students today share most of the beliefs- and just as strongly - their parents share.

Ironically, King said, this was one of the reasons why there were so many disturbances on campuses last year. Students thought they saw so many things wrong, they were sure they had to change the system.

King made three suggestions he thought would improve higher education. He suggested that young people be given more work experience while in school. All those years of school, King said, can remove a person from reality.

A sense of purpose must be developed in young people, he said, or they will simply drift through life.

Education must have a greater "inclusiveness," King said. We are still running an elitist system, he said, not drawing all of society into the educational process.

Portageville Dump Closed

PORTAGEVILLE — Mayor Roy Moore today said the city dump of this New Madrid county town located in Pemiscot County has been closed to public dumping of trash.

Moore said Pemiscot County Prosecuting Attorney Art Stephenson requested the dump be closed because residents living near the dump complained of the foul odor.

Moore said he would meet Monday with the Pemiscot county court to find out what should be done and hopes a solution can be worked out.

"I really don't have any suggestions for the citizens on what to do with their trash," he said.

Housing Goals Related

The primary goal of the department of housing and urban development is to secure housing for low and middle income people, Elmer E. Smith, regional director of the Housing and Urban Development office in Kansas City, said at a press conference and reception Thursday night at the Holiday Inn.

He told representatives of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission and others that high income people could take care of themselves as far as housing is concerned.

Smith said the function of HUD is to "maintain the present supply of housing, expand that supply, and to improve it".

"There's only one rule after that," he said, "and that is the jobs created from this maintaining, improving, or expanding and products created after that be available to all people on a fully equal opportunity basis."

Smith mentioned that HUD has gotten a bad name recently due to poor performance and it "is not unfounded".

"Thery are 11,500 low income units in the eastern half of Missouri," he said, "and of those units, 9,500 are in St. Louis and 2,500 of those are vacant."

Smith was past director of the St. Louis area office and was appointed regional director of the Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, and Nebraska regions by George Romney, secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

St. Patrick's Day

The color green is worn to represent the shamrock, national flower of Ireland.

Saint Patrick, the Apostle of Ireland, saint of the Roman Catholic church, planted the shamrock because its three small leaves represented the Holy Trinity.

He died March 17, about 461, and Saint Patrick's Day has been observed in America since Colonial days. The day is celebrated in churches, homes, schools and business places.

Loyal sons of Ireland wear a shamrock in their lapels on Saint Patrick's day.

LASER RAYS MAY
OUTSTRIP SCIENCE FICTION

Laser is an acronym for "light amplification through stimulated emission of radiation." It is a thin beam of light with enormous intensity that can cut cloth to a tolerance of 5/1000ths of an inch, or the width of a thread. It can "spot weld" loosened retinas of the human eye with such astronomical speed that the patient has no time to flinch or squirm. It can cut precise holes in the hulls of ships under construction.

Laser devices have been designed to make holograms. These are three dimensional photographs that record changes in materials in great detail. This discovery could revolutionize scientific studies. Lasers cut diamonds with a new accuracy. These are only a few of the civilian uses of the beam.

Equally revolutionary are the possibilities held out by the laser in the military field. "Death rays" that have been laughed off for years as the greatest bugbear ever invented in science fiction are, in fact, a possibility. The United States is vigorously pursuing the fabulous prospect opened up by the laser.

Eberhardt Rechtin, deputy director of defense research and engineering at the Pentagon, says the problem now is to build up enormous bursts of energy in a machine of practical size. Already laser beams have been used in warfare in Indochina for targeting enemy tanks with great effectiveness.

New discoveries as a result of the creation of the laser or through diversification of the uses of the laser may make the atomic bomb defusible. It is a fascinating field.

ELECTIONS IN POLAND

Elections in Communist countries are seldom a matter of great international importance. Despite the much publicized democratic trappings, positions of power and influence are reserved for loyal Communist Party members. On Sunday, March 19, Polish voters will elect their 460-member unicameral parliament or Sejm. Under the 1952 Constitution, the Sejm was recognized as the supreme organ of state authority. Government policy is controlled, however, by the Politburo of the United Worker's or Polish Communist Party. While there are a number of other parties and factions represented in the legislature, all support the party platform.

The Polish Communist Party is led by Edward Gierek, a 58-year-old former miner and regional party chief.Gierek came to power in December 1970 after riots in Gdansk and other Baltic cities. The immediate cause of violence was a sudden and sharp rise in food prices. Discontent over these increases was fueled by general dissatisfaction with the party's economic programs, which were held responsible for low wages, lack of consumer goods, housing shortages and inadequate public services.

Gierek's main task clearly was economic reform. Prices were lowered, food shortages eased and wages and public service expenditures increased. Last June, the regime unveiled a new five-year plan which stressed consumer goods over investment in heavy industry. Premier Piotr Jaroszewicz has said that, "The main theme of our new plan is man and his needs."

There also has been some liberalization on the political front. Gierek travelled widely, listened to grievances and encouraged Poles to discuss their problems with him and other party officials. Writers and intellectuals have been promised more freedom to deal with previously taboo subjects. In addition, Gierek has hinted that the legislature will assume more responsibility and become less of a rubber stamp for the Communist Party programs. Significantly, Gierek called the elections a year ahead of schedule.

ENGLAND LEADS WAY TO ECONOMIC DOWNFALL

Some readers may be interested in this portion of an economic report that a hard-nosed banker relative sends us:

"Since the early 1950s, our English cousins have led the way -- to economic downfall. For some strange reason, we seem bent on making all their errors -- only years later.

"We have just begun fooling around with incomes policies. Britain has over a decade's experience. The recent coal strike is a glaring example of what can go wrong when more fundamental problems are not attacked. A nation whose economic recovery was precarious at best was laid low by a striking union. Great Britain's equivalent of our Pay Board policy limits wage increases to 8 per cent annually (versus our 5½ per cent goal).

"We recently met with one of the most knowledgeable British financial experts and he told us that we could not begin to comprehend how gloomy the mood was over there. He reported the feeling was that the country had to stand firm or all incomes policies would collapse. The Heath government under attack politically (because of Northern Ireland), economically (because of the Common Market squabble) was fighting indeed for the very principle of curtailing inflation through an incomes approach.

"As we all know, the government not the union caved in. The miners were granted a 10 per cent increase because "It is a dirty job' and deserves special consideration. Can you imagine how every other laborer now feels in England? The dam is broken; the flood will come. We now predict before the year is out, Britain will undergo a monetary crisis as a result of its faltering economy. It will precede or be in conjunction with an equally serious dollar crisis. We say again that inflationary forces will not be curtailed unless the roots of inflation are attacked. Incomes policies, government fiat and anything else you like will fail. Curtailment of massive governmental deficits, abandonment of wild increases in money supply, keeping a relationship to sound backing of currency, prohibition of uncontrollable and unsound credit -- these are the things that will stop inflationary tendencies. And, at the root of these things lies the acceptance of reality on the part of the people in that they cannot have what they are unwilling to pay for without disastrous results in the future."

MAN-MADE DIAMONDS
INDUSTRY BOON

Whatever significance they may have for the fair sex, diamonds are definitely one of industry's best friends.

To be exact, man-made diamonds. Or to be more exact. "Man-Made," with capital letters. This is the trademark of the company which proved the feasibility of commercial production of synthetic diamonds 15 years ago and which remains the world's leading producer.

It was in February, 1957, just one year after announcing the capability to make diamonds, that General Electric delivered its first customer shipment — a total of about 10,000 carats, or a little more than 70 ounces, with a value of about $50,000.

Today, manufactured diamonds account for more than 50 per cent of all the industrial diamond abrasive used world wide and the price is half what it was in 1957.

Man-Made diamond is made by heating graphite and a metal catalyst — it can be chromium, manganese, iron or any of a number of other metals- to high temperature while applying high pressures. The idea is to duplicate nature's own pressure cooker a hundred or more miles inside the earth.

The graphite dissolves in the catalyst and, provided that the pressure is maintained, crystallizes as diamond when the temperature is reduced. The products are usually less than a 200th of a carat in weight.

But that's big enough. And because of the steady supply and because many different types of diamonds can be created by controlling what goes into the pressure cooker, artificial diamond has become a major tool.

Industrial diamond today is used to slice germanium semiconductors, polish the surface of wafer-thin silicon crystals, cut cured conceret, masonry and slabs of marble and granite, take the rough edges off automobile glass, cut and polish gem stones, drill holes in porcelian insulators, sharpen ultra-hard tungsten carbon tools, and so on and on and on.

THE NURSING HOME
PROBLEM

The Legislature shows signs of enacting a law that will place all "boarding" or "nursing homes" under supervision of the State Board of Health, and subject to inspection.

We have no doubt there are many such living places in which conditions could be improved, and should be, although we can't from personal knowledge point to any particular ones.

We are, however, afraid of what may happen if the State Board of Health takes over.

If its requirements are for something less than a perfect set-up, but one in which people can live safely, happily and healthily, then the new law would probably be a fine one to have.

But -- if the Board of Health comes up with requirements it now demands in nursing homes such as that in Monroe County, the operational costs of such establishments will skyrocket to a point where thousands of people will no longer be able to stay in them.

No alternative is offered for taking care of those who well may be without any sort of home or care.

Legislators need to take a good look at this and require regulations which will enable present homes to continue operation if we are to avoid having thousands of homeless aged people in Missouri. — Paris Appeal.

ZERO GROWTH WOULD HARM POOR THE MOST

Those who advocate "zero growth" for the American economy "are guilty of a callous complacency," according to the president of the American Petroleum Institute, Frank N. Ikard.

"I charge them with a cruel indifference to the very real material needs of millions of Americans who have not yet achieved their full share of American influence," he said.

Mr. Ikard asked: "Is the job of American industry finished? Shall we now devote ourselves merely to managing the status quo? Ask the 25 million men, women and children who barely subsist in poverty on family incomes of less than $4,000 a year. Ask them in Appalachia. Ask them in the dismal ghettos."

The API president said that the wealth needed to solve our social problems will come from the steady growth of our economy and the steady expansion of our industry, especially the petroleum industry, "because we supply the energy for the increase in mechanical productivity that makes growth possible."

Mr. Ikard said that a "potentially serious" energy gap now exists in this country. Demand for energy has been rising about five per cent a year in the United States, four times as fast as the population. He added that the demand is expected to double by 1985.

COURAGEOUS STATEMENT

Congresswoman, Edith Green, in a courageous statement, has taken exception to the idea that a college education is a necessary attainment for every living soul. She declares: "Too much emphasis has been placed on a four-year education as a prerequisite of success and happiness...". She said college entrance requirements have been waived in too many cases to take in persons who are incapable of competing at that level. The result has been students who are not accepted and cannot accept college life at the four-year level. She attributes much of the campus unrest of today to the fact that there are people in college who should not be there. She said she would prefer to see extensions of vocational and technical education for those whose intellectual bent leads them in that direction. Her remarks make sense.

Farm Driving Hints: If you farm where it snows, this can be the dusty, plow-time interlude between rains and blizzards. Change oil, service air cleaners and grease farm vehicles more frequently.

If your tractor has a compression release, check it now. This handy device can make starting a lot easier on a frosty morning.

Have you mounted new rear tires or remounted old ones? Don't forget the liquid balast for better traction -- but make it freeze-proof.

BRAINY WORK

It has been said that golf is 10 per cent physical effort and 90 per cent brain work. An oilman from Texas, who held with that belief, appeared one morning at the Rivercrest Country Club on his regular rounds.

Following behind him was a man pulling one of those chaise-lounges on wheels that are currently so popular on lawns throughout the country.

"What's the idea?" asked a friend, "of having your caddy drag that couch all over the course?"

"Caddy!" responded the oilman. "That's my psychiatrist."

ART PROFESSOR SCULPTS
GIANT BALER TWINE BALL

George Busher, professor of art at Susquehanna University in Pennsylvania, gets all wrapped up in his work. He sculpts with baler twine.

His latest work of art is a ball of baler twine, with a circumference of 37 feet and more than 117,000 feet of twine carefully wound into place. He calls it "Ball" and to complete it at Sperry Rand's New Holland, Pa., plant took more than two months of work on weekends and between classes, with student assistance.

Professor Bucher has been sculpting in baler twine for more than ten years and his work has been exhibited in numerous shows and art museums. Included in his shows are figures ranging from a tiny eagle, less than six inches high, to an awesome figure of a man eight feet tall.

CALIFORNIA DECISION

In a landmark decision that may be a portent of things to come from a higher court, the Supreme court of California has abolished the death penalty, basing its action on a series of legal findings including "cruel and unusual punishment." If the state doesn't get the decision overturned through appeals or new legislation, those men condemned to death in capital punishment cases will escape the gas chamber. Among those is Charles Manson.

Another aftermath of the decision was the granting of right of bond to communist Angela Davis who faces trial on a charge of murder growing out of a courtroom shooting in which a state judge was brutally murdered. MissDavis, a radically-orientated school teacher who espouses the cause of anarchy, will still have to face trial unless, of course, she jumps bond.

The high court is right in one facet. The taking of a human life is cruel. But the taking of human life didn't start with the state of California. It started with the invasion of the residence of Actress Sharon Tate and the commission of homicidal acts on her and her guests. It started with the invasion of a California courtroom by shotgun-wielding radicals who killed the judge and others. And it started in many other places where murder-prone persons killed the innocent. Society cannot tolerate this. It didn't in Biblical times when society demanded and got the supreme penalty. In those ancient days may offenses that were death penalty cases are now considered misdemeanors. The wisdom of those legislative bodies in the various states that prescribed death in murder offenses in not challenged here. The bulk of society must be protected. The criminal should be made to pay when he has exhausted his last appeal.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — A few disgruntled congressmen, guardians of the prized pork barrel, held a secret grump session the other day.

Attending were congressmen who, inpublic, pay lip service to the environmental movement. But in secret, they complained bitterly about its impact on their pet public works projects.

They were particularly incensed over lawsuits that are holding up construction. At one point, Rep. Bob Jones, D-Ala., denounced federal judges as a "bunch of ignoramusses." And Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., thinking no doubt his secret views would never get out to his fishermen constituents, blurted: "The hell with the fish!"

Nothing is dearer to the hearts of congressmen than federal projects, known in political parlance as "pork." Most of the pork is dished out by the House Public Works Committee, whose members are upset over the environmental restraints upon their projects.

They gathered behind closed doors to discuss their grievances. Appropriately, they met beneath a portrait of their former chairman, Rep. Charles "The Boss" Buckley, D-N.Y., who once exulted that he was getting his share of the public pork.

We have now obtained a 56-page transcript of the secret proceedings . As acting chairman, Jones complained about "these insipid and multitudinous suits filed in these courts....

ATTACK ON JUDGES

"These judges relish the opportunity," he groused, to stop construction of pork-barrel projects. Injunctions "are being maliciously used to halt the projects that Congress has worked for years and years and years to accomplish."

He added sourly that "you have a bunch of ignoramusses who are judges who are not respecting what has been done here."

Agreeing, Rep. Bill Harsha, R-Ohio, also lambasted "Mr. Nader and his group that has us tied up in court." He referred to the delay of pet projects while the federal government makes sure they won't harm the environment. Representative Pat Caffery, D.-La., a spokesman for Big Oil, complained that the federal environmental protection laws had held up plans to lease oil and gas lands off the Louisiana coast.

"All of a sudden at the 11th hour,"he whined, "the court grants....an injunction...blocking these lease sales." He didn't mention that the court acted to prevent a disastrous oil spill such as fouled the California coast.

Representative Roger Zion, R-Ind., chimed in to call the present conservation laws "ridiculous and silly."

Then Jim Wright, white teeth flashing, began to assault the environmental acts. Dams and buildings had been "brought to a screeching halt," he snorted, while the federal government weighed the effects on the environment.

"That is just a monstrous thing," he huffed. He was willing to see people protected by the laws, he said, but "the hell with the fish.

He proclaimed that he wanted "to find something that will short-stop all of these little pestiferous suits that are hamstringing the programs."

WEAKENING THE LAWS

As one member after another stood up for pollution, slow-witted Rep. Jim Kee, D-W.Vá., tried to understand what the discussion was all about. "Under what authority or pecking order,"he asked, "does the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) have the right to ...hold up actions? We are the ones who are elected by the people."

Committee staff members patiently explained to Kee that public projects were held up under laws already on the books. But committee counsel Richard Sullivan urged that the laws should be revised to circumvent the tough environmental impact statements now required before a project can be started.

The committee immediatley hammered out a bill that would permit EPA to give some of its powers to the states, which are more vulnerable to the pressure of the big polluters.

Footnote: During a lull in the secret discussion, Harsha asked Caffery: "What does the gentleman contemplate doing" in November? "Well, " drawled the congressman from Louisiana, "I may run for the city limits." When his constituents discover he has sold them out to the oil and gas interests, this may be prophetic.

International Telephone and Telegraph has insisted that its $400,000 pledge to the Republican convention was merely a routine contribution that hotels normally offer to bring conventions to town.

It is quite true that hotels pony up cash to attract convention business. But the largest hotel chain in the San Diego area contributed only $24,000 toward the GOP Convention. ITT owns the Sheraton chain, the second largest in the area. Its minimum commitment would have been less than $24,000.

Instead of that, ITT wrote a check for $100,000 and offered to make good another $300,000 if the conference bureau failed to raise the cash from other sources. In other words, ITT guaranteed up to $400,000 of the $600,000 total that the conference bureau promised in cash to the Republican Party for bringing the conference to San Diego.

Now, giant conglomerates don't commit $400,000 out of the goodness of their hearts. ITT expected a return on its investment. What the conglomerate wanted most of all was to stop an anti-trust suit intended to strip ITT of its prize subsidiary, Hartford Fire Insurance.

Exactly eight days after ITT pledged $400,000 to subsidize the Republican National Convention, the anti-trust suit was dropped. No amount of wool gathering in the Senate hearing is going to cover up these basic facts.

Inside White House: Troika tells president in private huddle 4-month-old Phase two has succeeded

WASHINGTON — If you work for a living there's a troika in your life and pocketbook. And at 3 p.m., March 7, it walked into the White House Oval Room and discussed the four-month -old Phase Two with President Nixon. They -- meaning hard-nosed Treasury Secretary John Connally, Budget and Management director, soft-voiced George Shultz, and professorial Herb Stein, chairman of Mr. Nixon's Council of Economic Advisors -- rapped with the boss."

He liked what the Troika told him. They were encouraged -- though the strident voice from West Coast dockwallopers' leader Harry Bridges was heard across the land saying, "We sure as hell don't like his (Nixon's) Phast Two program."

The Troika was encouraged. It was not much disturbed by Bridges' threat to shut down the nation's ports if the Pay Board shaved a penny off his 72-cents-an-hour increase -- meaning a ceiling-cracking 16.9 per cent the first year.

Apparently the enfant terrible of the west Coast hadn't read the small print of the Economic Stabilization Act. Any such strike could be ended swiftly by court injunction under powers given the Cost of Living Council and the President. There could be criminal as well as civil action. Nobody would bother trying to put Bridges in the pokey, but fines could force the union to go broke.

Furthermore, to shut down the nation's ports, the Western longshoremen would need East Coast dockers' help. And though Bridges has been boasting of class collaboration with men he called demons not too long ago, namely, national AFL-CIO leaders, some of them have been in touch with the White House assuring it that Bridges had no right to commit them to strangling the nation.

One East Coast waterfront leader put it succinctly: "Bridges is nuts if he thinks we're going out with him.

Meanwhile back in the Oval Room Tuesday, March 7, the Troika and the President agreed that all is going well. The Pay Board is functioning. There'd be trouble only if wholesale prices continued upward through May.

As for the Price Commission, which came in for so much Madison Avenue clean living publicity, it is massaging its cases too much. It is not applying overall policy. It is chasing pennies. It has no enforcement. The AFL-CIO price monitoring operation with 35,000 men in the field has the Price Commission over a barrel and will slap it with staves during this panel's own open hearing on March 28.

The big price bulge is in food. But "raw" food controls would mean rationing, black marketering, the point system and all its abuses. So the Price Commission is stuck in its barrel.

But not so the Pay Board. It is rolling. In the past four months, despite the heavy coal and rail increases, the average wage hike has been 4.3 per cent for 4,659,080 workers.

It can now be reported here that the Pay Board is about to set up a mini-board called the Committee on Cases and Appeals. And labor is going along. It will be tripartite -- separate from the Pay Board, with its own staff, its own decisions, its own executives.

The mini-board will not be made up of Pay Board members -- but of appointees quite different from the current staff. Thus the Pay Board will become a sort of Supreme Court with the Committee on Cases and Appeals sitting as a lower district court. The Pay Board will go on an easier, less regular schedule.

Its decisions will be final -- unless someone protests and asks for a review by the Pay Board itself, en banc, the full 15 members. Or if the board, through its chairman, Judge George (Gid) Boldt, decides to reserve some policy-setting case for itself.

And thus the Pay Board members can take a holiday; eat food instead of cardboard sandwiches, return to families from whom they've been away so long they may be asked for identification.

So Phase Two, no longer a brawling, squalling infant, is functioning. It has made its impact on wages -- which were away out in some fields. It has not yet saddled prices of food.

It is here for the duration. If the prices run away, if Bridges and his longshoremen by some slight chance do match their agitation with action, the Cost of Living Council can always restructure the whole operation. Its Executive Director Donald Rumsfeld tells me there is power in the stabilization law and, if necessary, he, the council, and the President intend to use it.

But this isn't likely. Not judging from what the Troika told the President for an hour and a half. But the proof of the story isn't in the Oval Room -- but in the supermarkets of the land. Wages are topping off. Now the turn is to prices.

Incentives Urged For Technology

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has proposed a bundle of incentives to industry—including some modest tax relief, credit aids, federal cost-sharing, and even prizes— to develop new products and processes.

In a special message to Congress Thursday, Nixon promised a partnership of government and industry to marshal science and technology in solving economic problems at home and reviving American competitiveness in world trade.

The message disappointed some industry leaders who have urged changes in the antitrust laws to encourage corporations to pool research-and-development funds for projects too big or risky for single firms.

Nixon invited the pooling of resources and sharing of profits, but did so by giving assurances, in effect, that his administration will not take antitrust action against combinations seeking needed technological breakthroughs as long as their actions do not foster monopoly.

The message reported that firms in two major industries already are pooling their resources. Electric utilities have pledged $25 million a year for the next 10 years to develop a liquid metal fast-breeder nuclear reactor, as a demonstration power plant. This, said Nixon, is part of a larger effort by electrical utilities to raise $150 million a year for research and development in producing clean electric power.

Gas companies, through the American Gas Association, have raised $10 million to accelerate their pooled effort to convert coal into gas, the message said.

Other major goals of the technology drive, Nixon said, are rapid, safe and pollutionfree transportation; measures to reduce loss of life and property from natural disasters; improvement of drug-abuse rehabilitation programs, and stepped up medical research.

Although it is known that many tax-incentive proposals to speed research have been studied by the White House, Nixon's message made only one tax request—enactment of the smallbusiness tax bill pending since last year.

The message also asked Congress to increase the ratio of federal financial support to small business investment companies, to increase their ability to lend to small, high-technology firms which, Nixon said, have had "such a distinguished pioneering record."

Experiments to test a variety of partnership arrangements between government agencies, private firms and universities will be set up under sponsorship of the National Science Foundation and the National Bureau of Standards, Nixon said.

Urban Renewal Project Begins

CHARLESTON — Scattered rain showers failed to dampen the spirits of city officials and citizens who gathered Thursday afternoon at the intersection of Main and West Marshall streets to witness the ribbon cutting ceremony and signing of the city's annual arrangement contract by Mayor Sam Story and Elmer E. Smith, regional director of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, from Kansas City.

Gov. and Mrs. Warren E. Hearnes were present. The event marked the beginning of the $4.3 million urban renewal project.

Twenty minutes later the first condemned house in the project area was demolished by bulldozer followed by a bus tour through the designated urban renewal area, concluding at the nearly completed housing project in Kimes Addition.

Charleston is one of two annual arrangement cities in Missouri and as such will sign yearly agreements for financing of the HUD programs it needs. The annual arrangement will permit coordination of urban renewal, public housing and water and sewer improvement projects.

Trip To Hear Mrs. Beard Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee today postponed indefinitely its planned trip to Denver to take testimony from Mrs. Dita D. Beard, the lobbyist for International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. whose memorandum has caused controversy over her company.

John Holloman, counsel for the committee, made the announcement. The trip had been planned for next Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. Beard, now in a Denver hospital, has been reported suffering from a heart ailment.

Committee testimony Thursday developed that within a day of learning that columnist Jack Anderson had a private ITT memorandum in his possession, ITT mobilized its full Washington staff to destroy all documents that might be "misued or misconstrued" by Anderson.

On Feb. 24, an Anderson associate, Brit Hume, appeared at ITT's Washington office with a memo written by Mrs. Beard.

The next morning, W. R. Merriam, head of the office, told the staff of 25 there was a possibility of theft and that they were to check to see if any documents were missing.

"At the same time they were told to remove any documents that were no longer needed for current operations as well as documents which, if put into Mr. Anderson's possession, could be misused or misconstrued by him so as to cause unwarranted embarrassment to the people mentioned therein," the Senate Judiciary Committee was told Thursday.

Howard J. Aibel, ITT senior vice president and general counsel, said that after the meeting staff members and their secretaries reviewed their files and disposed of what he called unneeded documents, most of them old and outdated materials.

Most of the material was disposed of in a shredding machine.

Five days later, Anderson published a column based on the Beard memo which he said linked ITT's pledge to help underwrite the Republican National Convention with the settlement of three antitrust suits against ITT.

Hume testified last week that Mrs. Beard told him some of the material put through the shredder dealt with the subject under investigation by the committee. ITT officials have denied it.

Aibel told the committee that ITT officials did not know exactly what material was destroyed but it consisted mainly of old speeches, press releases and clippings, old correspondence current with issues in 1962 and 1963 and brochures dealing with hotels in San Diego.

Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., told the ITT official: "Do you know how incriminating this looks on its face? Hume comes in with a memorandum and the next day huge amounts of documents are thrown into a shredder."

Duncan Freed

STE. GENEVIEVE, Mo. (AP) — A circuit court jury in Ste. Genevieve County has acquitted Jackie Norman Duncan, 26, of Blytheville, Ark., of two charges of first-degree murder.

The verdict of innocent was returned Thursday in connection with the shooting deaths last July of Diana Overturf, 21, and Granville L. Welch, 26.

The trial was shifted here on a change of venue from Hillsboro, Mo. It began Wednesday.

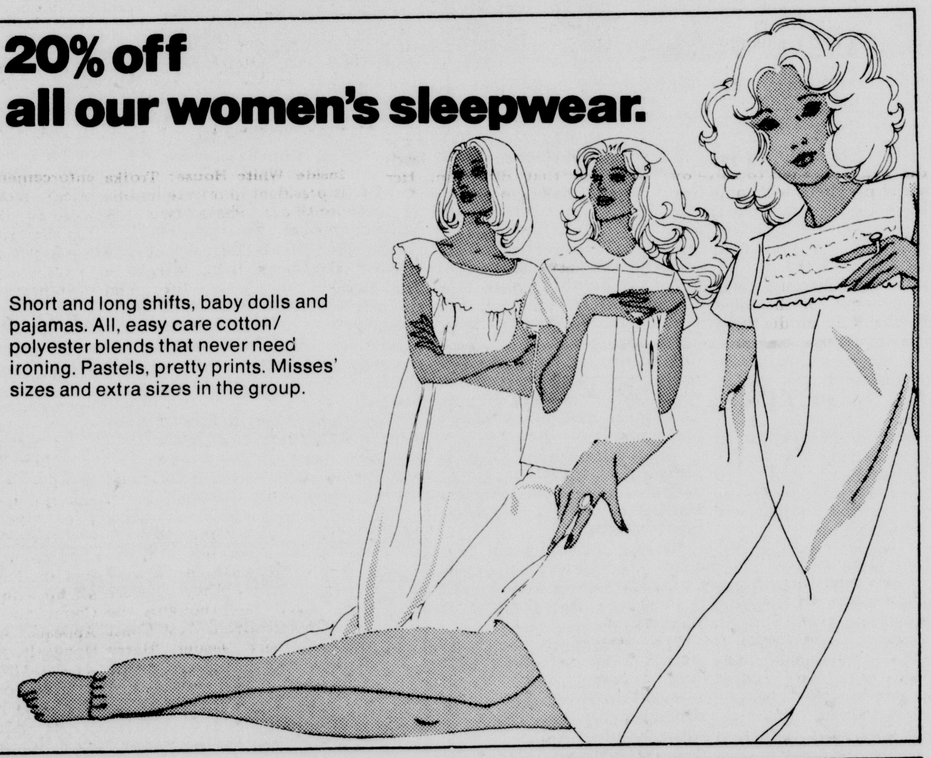

The bodies of Welch and Miss Overturf were found July 3 in the back seat of Welch's car near Murphy, Mo. Both had been shot in the chest.

Duncan testified he had seen the car in which the bodies were found but that he did not stop and look inside and did not kill the two persons.

Another man was arrested earlier in the killings. Murder charges against him were dropped.

Weird Weddings Not For Everyone

Dear Ann Landers: Who do you think you are to tell a person that she is an oddball or a weirdo just because her idea of a wedding doesn't conform with yours? Has it occurred to you that individuality is very important to some people and that the ability to express one's self freely is part of today's youth culture? What is normal anyway? And who is to judge? Surely not Ann Landers, the square of all time. --We The People

Dear People: My apologies. Of course you are right. How rude of me to suggest that there might be something peculiar about getting married under Lake Michigan in swimming suits with snorkel tubes. Every normal minister wears water-wings on his rubber diving suit and all sane and sensible wedding parties come fully prepared to be lowered into the lake on a submersible platform. Please forgive me for suggestion that there was anything strange about this. I lost my head.

Dear Ann Landers: I realize you're not a travel writer but I consider you a friend, so I decided to ask for some help.

My husband passed away three months ago and I'm just now coming out of my grief. I'm making plans to go to Europe. It will be my first trip abroad. Can you give me a few packing guidelines and some travel hints? It would mean a great deal. Thanks very much.--Maiden Voyage

Dear Maiden: The cardinal rules for any trip are these:

(1) Take half as many clothes as you think you'll need and twice as much money.

(2) If you don't wear it at home, don't take it on a trip. This goes for fancy extras -- or a skirt or dress that's a smidge too tight.

(3) Never put a bottle of anything liquid in your suitcase. If it can spill, it will. All liquids and creams should be placed in plastic bags.

(4) Pack systematically so you'll know where everything is. It's maddening to have to pull everything apart to find a pair of hose.

(5) Don't take more luggage than you can carry personally in an emergency.

(6) Keep your passport, travelers' checks, jewelry and cash in your shoulderstrap handbag at all times. Wear it slung over yourself and be alert to pickpockets whose most lucrative hours are spent in airports and train stations.

Have a wonderful time and send me a post card.

Dear Ann Landers: You have frequently cautioned women against baring their souls and telling a fiance or a husband about a past indiscretion. This is excellent advice and I hope your male readers realize that it goes for them, too.

After 14 years of what I thought was a solid marriage my husband uncorked the sickening details of an affair he had been having for four years and announced, "It's over now." I sat stunned as he described the curlycues of deception and the masterful network of lies. What a blow to my self-esteem! How could I have been so completely fooled?

Although his confession was made nearly a year ago, and he has been a model husband in every sense of the word, I find it difficult to believe anything he says. I hate myself for my lack of trust but I can't help it. I know his feeling of guilt made him confess, but how I wish he had gone to a clergyman. He expressed enormous relief after he delivered himself of the burden, but he did not really dispose of it, he has handed it to me. --Breaking Point In Portland

Dear B.P. In Portland: Thanks for letting us know that the shoe can pinch, even when it's on the other foot. Such "confessions" usually contain elements of punishment --whether the "penitent" realizes it or not.

Cactus Flower Well Received By Audience

By JOYCE HAGY

"Oh what a tangled web we weave, when first we practice to deceive," describes last night's opening performance of "Cactus Flower" at the junior high school auditorium.

Attractive, blond Peggy Matthews showed great promise as an xctress as she played the part of Toni Simmons, the beautiful young mistress of Dr. Julian Winston, the dashing, deceitful dentist played professionally by David Boyer.

Igor Sullivan, played by Jamie Terrell, is the cute and available next door neighbor of Miss Simmons, who keeps popping up at the most inopportune moments to Dr. Winston's dismay.

Stephanie Dickinson, played by Sandy York, gives a first impression of being the typical, reserved, nurse receptionist, but as the play progresses and her hidden feelings for Dr. Winston emerges her personality slowly blooms. Her well acted part is the added spice for the comedy.

Harvey Greenfield and Botticellis Springtime, played by Don Stephens and Terri Terrell, are a couple of drinking, freeloading friends of Dr. Winston. Harvey's loud laugh at the right moment is appreciated and keeps a constant chuckle in the audience.

Senor Arturo Sanchez, played by Gary Pearcy, is the Latin lover whose dental phobia is typical of today's dental patients.

Also in the cast were Dale Shaver as the waiter and Terry Dejournett as the music lover.

"Cactus Flower" was written by Abe Burrows and was directed last night by Beth White.

The first play of the year for Little Theatre was strongly received by last night's audience. I recommend an evening of laughter for all ages.

"Cactus Flower" will be presented again tonight and Saturday night at the junior high school auditorium. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

SPRING is coming and children at the Regional Diagnostic Clinic have received new bikes. Two bicycles were donated by the Coalesce Club and a three-wheeler came with the compliments of the Cerebral Palsy Foundation.

Matthews-Whitford Vows Said in Joplin Church

The former Ellen Louise Whitford of Joplin was married to Robert L. Matthews of Sikeston Saturday.

JOPLIN — Before an altar decorated with candelabra entwined with greenery, pink gladioli and white pompons, Miss Ellen Louise Whitford exchanged wedding vows with Robert L. Matthews.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. Ward Conklin Saturday at the First Presbyterian church in Joplin. Wedding music was furnished by Miss Cathey Sours, soloist, and Dr. William Roehling, organist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Whitford of 522 North Pearl Ave., and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Bob L. Matthews, 725 Mimosa, Sikeston.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A-line gown of silk shantung fashioned with an Empire waistline adorned with a floor-length sash of matching fabric. Embroidered lace trimmed the collar and cuffs of the long sleeves, and formed a border on the train. A lace cap accented with seed pearls held her mantilla of silk illusion edged with matching lace and pearls. She carried a cascade of pink tulips, pink pompons tipped in white, baby's breath and ivy.

Miss Mary Whitford attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Linda Ward of St. Louis and Miss Debbie Wieman of Joplin. They wore wine colored Empire dresses trimmed with light pink sashes, and carried white wicker baskets of pink carnations, pompons, baby's breath and ivy.

Mrs. John Gallagher of Cape Girardeau, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Barvara Mawhinney of Joplin were candlelighters.

Serving as best man was John Gallagher of Cape Girardeau. Ushers were Robert Sanders and Bob Godfrey of Kansas City.

The mother of the bride wore a beige knit dress with long sleeves and brown accessories. Her corsage was of pink glamelias. Mrs. Matthews chose a yellow A-line silk wool dress with black accessories and a white glamelia corsage.

John Knox Hall of the church was the scene for a reception after the ceremony. Assisting were Miss Sheila Sharpe, Miss Mindy Key, Miss Collette Cavanaugh and Mis Toni Taylor.

The bride's traveling ensemble was a wine colored double knit dress with camel colored accessories and a corsage from the bridal bouquet.

The couple plans to live in Seattle, Wash. at 1315 N. 40th St., Apartment C. The groom will enter the school of oceanography at the University of Washington in Seattle.

Boots Appear When Women Most Active

NEW YORK — (NEA) — There is a theory that boots as a fashion for women appear when women are most physically active, socially mobile and personally independent. Certainly they lend a machismo air to fashion whether it is the riding habit of the cavalier's lady or the zap of today's liberated woman.

Despite lapses into disfavor during periods of reaction and prim notions of "woman's place" (in Victorian times boots were the badge of the "loose female") boots have symbolized military pride, cowboy vanity, horseman's dash, courtier's elegance and dandy's disdain since their emergence in the 1600s. Whenever women want to adopt these swashbuckling images, they pull on a pair of boots.

But the popularity of the fashion in the past is not a patch on their acceptance today. Now boots emerge as the major footwear fashion for men and children as well as women. Stores expect to sell up to 100 per cent more boots this year than they did last year.

March Brings Wide Variety of Weather

50 years ago
March 17, 1922

Wesley Jones will be glad to serve his friends at the Blue Front restaurant, which he has recently purchased.

Mr. and Mrs. C.S. Tanner left for St. Louis Sunday, where they will remain for several days.

The fire department was called out at midnight Friday to fight a fire that broke out in a house on North Handy street, owned by Miss D. Powers. The home of John Kaiser, next door, also caught fire and was unable to be saved.

The first 20 days of March have come and gone and no two of them alike. Rain, sleet, snow, wind sunshine, more cold rain and wind. There can be only 10 more days of March weather anyway.

Charleston - Miss Elsie Barnes and Mrs. J.D. Timmell spent Thursday in East Prairie.

New Madrid -- Mrs. Wm. Buesching, a citizen of this city, died at her home here Tuesday. She went to the Presbyterian Church Sunday night and during the sermon she took sick and was taken to her home immediatley. It was later discovered that she had suffered a paralytic stroke.

Blodgett- Mrs. Roy Green and son, Dean, are sick with the flu.

Morehouse -- A.W. Colyer and son, Charles, were Dexter business visitors Friday.

Matthews - Mr. and Mrs. Hite Harris and baby of Morley spent Monday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Cantwell.

March 17, 1942

West Village - Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Harr spent Sunday in Morehouse with Mr. and Mrs. J.K. Barnhill.

Morley -- Mrs. Don Dennis entertained with a surprise dinner honoring the birth anniversary of Mrs. Garrett Verhines.

Vanduser -- Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cook spent Thursday night with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Burnett and children of Children.

Blodgett -- Mrs. J.F. Nunnelee, chairman of the Red Cross war relief campaign here, today reported that $69.25 had been raised, exceeding the $60 quota.

A son was born to Mr. nd Mrs. Pearl James Tuesday at Sikeston General Hospital.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Story, Route 2, Tuesday.

James Denton of the seventh grade, came down the home stretch of the rodent tail collection drive well ahead of the field. He had a total of 334 mice and 10 rat tails.

No Jobless Pay For Lax Employe

By Jack Strauss, Herman had about as much ambition as a hibernating bear. Complacent and easy-going , he managed to perform his job with reasonable satisfaction, but with little enthusiasm. And, when his employer asked him to work 15 minutes overtime, he flinched at the thought of the extra exertion and declined the request without further explanation. His employer, in turn, fired him.

Accepting his fate philosophically, Herman strolled over to the local unemployment bureau and applied for benefits.

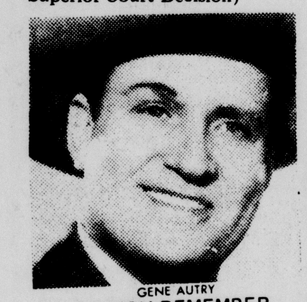

"Sorry, Mac, " he was told, "you're not qualified to receive benefits. You were fired for willful misconduct.

"Willful misconduct!" repeated Herman. "You must be kidding. I was bounced because I didn't want to work overtime. From 9 to 5, I did everything that was required of me. But there's no law that says a man must work overtime if he doesn't want to. After all, this is still a free country."

Determined to collect unemployment benefits, Herman took his claim to court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Herman to collect unemployment benefits?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that "willful misconduct" has been construed as a wanton or willful disregard for an employer's interests. By flatly refusing to work for a short period of time without explanation, noted the judge, Herman's conduct was unreasonable and unfriendly to his employer's interests. An employer, concluded the judge, is entitled to a dregree of loyalty and willingness to work above and beyond the call of duty. (Based upon a 1959 Pennsylvania Superior Court Decision)

year to points in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

She has taken tours to the New Orleans Mardi Gras and acted as the official hostess at the "Kru of Noblad Ball" at the Roosevelt hotel there for 800 guests.

Last October she was made a "Duchess of Paducah" by Mayor Robert Cherry. Whe was given a key to the city and made an honorary citizen of Mobile, Ala., and recognized from the floor of the capitol in Montgomery.

New Orleans gave her a key to the city and made her an honorary citizen.

Pictures and feature articles about her have appeared in the "New Orleans News", "Down South" magazine" and "Sun and Sand News" of Biloxi, Miss.

She has two daughters, Mrs. Nancy Wymer of Sikeston and Mrs. Urah Vardell of Texarkana, Ark., and one son, William D. Alcorn of Webster Groves.

The banquet speaker was Rep. Calvin D. Johnson, Belleville, a member of the Illinois General Assembly six years.

Johnson kept the audiences attention by injecting jokes about life during depression days and today's politicians.

Johnson said that the greatest enemy of the nation today is laziness. He says he believes that every able bodied man on relief should have to work and punch a time clock for the money he receives.

"Most politicians today have weak knees and a lack of guts", Johnson said. He described a liberal as a man who had both feet planted firmly in the air.

Johnson said the nation was built on hard work "The five- hour a day work day in New York is disgraceful," he said.

"We should teach our youngsters that this is the land of opportunity and there is no substitute for hardwork," he said.

Betty Cole, president of the BP&W Club gave the welcome and Addie Mae Jones was toastmaster.

Joe Williams gave the invocation and benediction and Joel Allen provided organ music.

Mrs. Alcorn received a dozen red roses, a silver bowl presented by Charles Matthews, a distinguished citizen award presented by Robert A. Dempster in behalf of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes; a key to the City of Sikeston from Mayor Lee Shell and a charm from Mrs. Cole.

WHO'S the Salesman:

YOU or Your Wife?

Who would do a better job of selling your house - you or the Mrs.? Which of you is better equipped to deal with people?

The answer may surprise you: it's probably NEITHER! Selling properties takes more than mere good salesmanship . . . FAR more. It takes specialized traning and experience in appraising, negotiating, financing, advertising, closing, etc.

Understanding anatomy never made anyone a Dotor. And being a good salesman doesn't qualify for handling realty. Consult a professional! It will save you endless time and trouble, and probably bring a greater new result.

Blue's Two Little Words - - "I Quit"

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vida Blue said, "I quit," and with those two little words, the Oakland A's lost a pitcher and baseball lost a gate attraction.

"We hate to lose him ... and that's an understatement," said Oakland Manager Dick Williams after the star left-hander announced his retirement from baseball Thursday.

Blue, who reached an impasse in contract talks with owner Charles O. Finley, decided it all wasn't worth it and chucked his career for a public relations job.

The personable Blue had a meteoric rise last year, when he won 24 games and the Cy Young and Most Valuable Player awards in his full season in the majors. He pitched before more than a million fans.

The surprise announcement came after Blue maintained a rock-steady posture against Finley's offer of $50,000 for this year. Blue, represented by lawyer Robert Gerst, was seeking $92,500.

The door for negotiations was left slightly ajar, however, when Gerst said that Blue would consider any higher offers from Finley.

Elsewhere in baseball, there was more off-the-field excitement as the Boston Red Sox became the first team polled to vote against a strike for the Major League Players Association. The vote was 19-4 by the Red Sox, whereas the first 13 teams asked had voted unanimously for a strike.

The Players Association has threatened a strike because of an argument with owners over money for the ballplayers' health benefit plan.

In exhibition baseball, Ellie Hendricks tripled across the tying run in the fifth inning, then singled in he winning run in the seventh as the Baltimore Orioles whipped the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2.

Tony Muser led the Chicago White Sox with four hits and two RBI in a 9-5 triumph over the Kansas City Royals.

A triple by Ted Simmons and single by Jorge Roque broke a tie and gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 2-1 rain-shortened 4½ inning victory over the Houston Astros.

The Cincinnati Reds and New York Yankees played to a 1-1 tie in a game called after 13 innings because of rain. Cesar Geronimo's single drove home the game's first run in the top of the Cincinnati 10th inning. The Yankees tied it in their half of the inning on Johnny Callison's home run.

Craig Nettles drove in six runs for Cleveland as the Indians pulled out a 12-8 comeback triumph over the Chicago Cubs. Hank Aaron and Oscar Brown homered for Atlanta in a 15-14 triumph over the Texas Rangers.

Willie Crawford got three hits, leading Los Angeles over Minnesota 4-2. Boston scored six runs in the sixth inning to beat Detroit 10-6.

Five Oakland pitchers combined for a shutout as the A's topped San Diego 4-0, and the California Angeles scored five times in the first inning and walloped Milwaukee 6-1.

Baseball's Great 'Pie' Traynor Dead

PITTSBURGH (AP) -- Hall of Famer Harold "Pie" Traynor, a genial Irishman once voted baseball's greatest third baseman of all time, is dead at age 72 from a respiratory ailment.

Police said Traynor was stricken Thursday while visiting a friend. He was rushed to Shadyside Hospital by ambulance, but was dead on arrival.

A hospital spokesman said Traynor had been under a doctor's care for the illness and had to be hospitalized twice last year because of it.

Traynor, one of Pittsburgh's most beloved sports heroes, spent his entire 17 seasons in the major leagues with the Pirates. He compiled a lifetime batting average of .320, rapped out 2,416 hits and was a legend with the glove.

He was voted into the Hall of Fame in 1948 and was chosen the greatest third baseman who ever played in a special poll of baseball writers in 1969, the sport's centennial year.

He was born Nov. 11, 1899 at Framingham, Mass.

When Traynor played in Somerville, Mass., as a youngster he was befriended by a priest who directed baseball games. After each contest the priest would treat the youths to a snack.

Most of them requested ice cream, but it is said Traynor's response inevitably was: "I'll take pie, Father."

And thus the nickname.

He entered organized baseball in 1920 with Portsmouth of the Virginia League. The same year, he was brought up to the Pirates for 17 games, then farmed out to Birmingham. He returned to Pittsburgh in 1921 and became the team's regular third baseman in 1922.

Traynor was noted for playing far behind the third base bag and constantly scooping up balls hit far to his right, leading to a legend of his era coined by a baseball writer.

"The batsman smashed a double down the third base line and was thrown out by Traynor."

Traynor also managed the Pirates from 1934-39. He later scouted part- time for the team and worked as a radio sports announcer.

He is survived by his widow, the former Eve Helmer.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Banquet To Honor Babe Ruth Nine

A baseball banquet Saturday night will honor Junior Babe Ruth All Star team for its accomplishments in battling to Missouri State championship and placing second in the Midwest-Plains regional tournament at Belle Plains last year.

Eight states participated in Tournaments. In a decisive game, the Bulldogs pitted their strength against St. Paul, but were defeated 31.

At the banquet at 7:30 p.m. in the Country Club, trophies will be presented to individual players.

Those to be honored are Rick Dyer, Don Taylor, Mitchell Walker, Greg Colwick, Richard Blankenship, John Leible, Jim Matthews, Rick Eisenbach, Mark Couch, Charlie Miller, Kenny Stokes, Bill Shatzley, Terry Winchester, and Jim Saulters.

ED HUGHES was coach of the NFL's Houston Oilers last year. But things have changed and Hughes, who lost his coaching job in a dispute with Oiler owner Bud Adams, had to take a job at a factory that makes dump trucks when the Oilers said he would not be paid for the remaining four years of the five -year contacted he signed in 1971.

Finley Thinks Blue Is Sincere

OAKLAND (AP)—Vida Blue found it impossible to keep a straight face but swore, "I'm serious."

The 22-year-old pitching star of the Oakland Athletics announced Thursday he was leaving baseball, for a public relations job, because A's owner Charles O. Finley won't offer more than $50,000 for the coming season.

Blue called the figure, which Finley has stuck with since Jan. 8, "unfair judged by existing standards in baseball."

He and his attorney, Robert J. Gerst, want a $92,500 contract offer as a reward for Blue's great 1971 season.

The American League's Most Valuable Player, dressed in sports shi rt, slacks and sneakers at the news conference here, said he would go to work for a steel products company in Los Angeles as vice president in charge of public relations.

Blue noticed some incredulous looks on the faces of reporters and photographers and cracked up laughing at that point.

But Finley, at his insurance office in Chicago, seemed to think Blue was sincere.

"I have to assume that he is," Finley said, and repeated what he had told Blue by phone Wednesday night, that $50,000 was his final offer.

Most A's players, in spring training at Mesa, Ariz., still think Blue will pitch this year.

"I think he'll come back to play. He likes to play," said outfielder Angel Mangual, who was to have been Blue's spring training roommate. "Now he's just confused."

Blue, in his first full major league season, received a $14,750 salary last yar. He had a 24-8 record, a 1.82 earned run average, eight shutouts and 301 strikeouts.

The A's won the Western Division title and Blue pitched before more than a million baseball fans.

Finley gave his star pitcher from Mansfield, La., a new blue Cadillac on "Vida Blue Day" at the Oakland Coliseum.

The first postseason honor that went to Blue was the Cy Young Award, as the American League's best pitcher.

In an interview at his apartment here, the day he won that award, Blue was asked if he expected a salary fight with Finley.

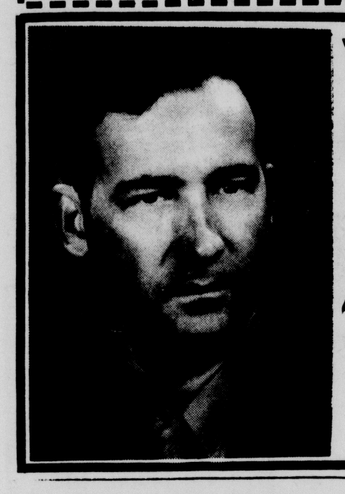

"No. I don't think we'll have any problems," said Blue, who already had arranged for Los Angeles attorney Gerst to represent him.

Finley calls his $50,000 offer the best ever made to a secondyear baseball player.

"He had a great year and had a great future ahead of him. As long as he is retiring, I'm happy that he has selected the steel industry and is starting out as a vice president," said Finley, who once worked in a U.S. Steel machine shop.

Beard Under Weather But Out Front

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The day started with the marshal picking up the first two dirves that were hit off the tee, featured a rain delay and ended with Frank Beard talking about his ears.

Beard, who has been hampered by a serious ear infection most of the season, conquered wind and rain with a four-under-par 68 and the first round lead in the $125,000 Greater Jacksonville Open Golf Tournament Thursday.

"I'm not a good wind player," said Beard. "So a score like this on a day like this is some indication of how well I'm hitting the ball."

Beard, a $100,000 winner for the last five years, held a one stroke lead over Al Geiberger, whose last victory was the 1966 PGA National Championship.

Tony Jacklin of England headed a group of seven at 70, two under par on the 6,943 yard Hidden Hills Country Club Course that was swept by gusty winds and deluged with a heavy shower that caused a delay of almost an hour.

Also at that figure were Grier Jones, Bob Murphy, J. C. Snead, Jim Wiechers, George Hixon and Jim Hardy.

Troubled Arnold Palmer broke par for the first time in three weeks with a 71, but had to have six birdies to offset a double bogey, a pair of sixes and three three-putt greens.

Gary Player of South Africa, the defending champion, matched par 72 and Lee Trevino took a 73.

Beard, winner of 11 tour titles and the 1969 Player of the Year, has the reputation of being a colorless golfer. But he was chipper, cheerful and making wisecracks when he finished in the gathering darkness.

"I've never had any excuses—I abhor them—except bad play," said Beard, who has won only $5,200 this season. "But I got this ear infection in the wind and rain at Hawaii.

"By the time we got to the Bob Hope it was so bad I couldn't hear.

Exhibition Tie Broken

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Hitting by catcher Ted Simmons and outfielder Jorge Roque broke a 1-1 tie between the Cardinals and the Houston Astros Thursday and gave St. Louis its first victory in five exhibition starts.

Simmons belted a triple to lead off the fourth. The rookie Roque followed with a single to make the score 2-1.

The game ended in the bottom half of the fourth when rain doused the complex at Al Lang Field. St. Louis had gone 23-innings without scoring before the game with Houston, now 3-3.

Pitcher Bob Gibson allowed three hits and scored the first Cardinal run himself in the third after getting a walk.

Bruin Victory Not Sharp Enough, Says Wooden

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For UCLA it was business as usual in the NCAA Far West Regionals, but in the Mideast Adolph Rupp's Kentucky team surprised Chones-less Marquette.

The Bruins, seeking their sixth straight national basketball title, defeated Weber State 90-58 Thursday night, but Coach John Wooden said he wasn't pleased with the team's performance.

"I doubt we had as much respect before the game for Weber as we should have," Wooden said. "This is sort of like starting a new season. We just didn't look sharp."

Guards Henry Bibby and Larry Farmer hit from the outside and center Bill Walton controlled the backboards as UCLA led 42-25 at the half. But Walton got into foul trouble and was replaced by Swen Nater, who scored 12 points. Walton, an All-American, scored six points.

Weber State Coach Gene Visscher said his team played tight at the beginning as he had feared it would, but "I didn't think we'd stop Walton the way we did."

Bibby finished with 16 points and Farmer with 15. Bob Davis hit 16 for the Wildcats while Riley Kimberly had 14. Walton slightly injured his left knee but is expected to play in the regional final Saturday in Provo, Utah.

Kentucky, No. 18-ranked champions of the Southeastern Conference, spent less than an hour developing the zone defense it used to defeat No. 7 Marquette.

Rupp said he used the zone because he didn't believe his team could handle the Warriors man-to-man.

The Warriors missed, and have missed, center Jim Chones, the All-American who signed a professional contract with the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association. While Chones was playing, Marquette was undefeated and ranked second in the nation.

Ron Lyons scored 19 points for Kentucky in the game at Dayton, Ohio. His shooting overcame a 34-33 Marquette halftime lead. Bob Lackey led the Warriors with 21 points.

Basketball Camp Set

LEXINGTON -- A Hall of Fame basketball camp will be held at Wentworth Military Academy, Lexington, Mo., according to Al McGuire, nationally prominent Marquette University basketball coach, and Walt Shublom, basketball coach as Kansas City, Kansas, Junior College.

Hall of Fame Sports Camps, Inc. is a division of Medalist Industries, Inc., Milwaukee based manufacturer of athletic and leisure time products and apparel. The camp operation is headed by McGuire. Open to boys from 10 through 18, the camp is scheduled for July 16-22.

Shublom, who will serve as camp director, is nationally famous as a prep and collegiate basketball figure. Before he came to his present post, he served as assistant coach at the University of Missouri, and formerly was head basketball mentor at Wyandotte High School, Kansas, where his teams compiled the amazing record of 296-26. He has authored many articles for coaching periodicals, and has also written several books on basketball.

In addition to Shublom, the youngsters will also be given instruction by McGuire who was basketball's coach of the year for 1970-71. Marquette, under the colorful McGuire's direction, has played in five tournaments the past five years, winning the NIT in 1970. McGuire played college ball at St. John's in New York, and professionally with the New York Knickerbockers.

Also on hand at Lexington will be Lucius Allen, former All-American guard at UCLA andnow one of the stars of the world champion Milwaukee Bucks. Allen played under Shublom at Wyandotte high school.

Wentworth Miltary Academy is approximately 40 miles from the center of Kansas City. It is easily accessible by major highways and three railroads.

To Day In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, March 17, the 77th day of 1972. There are 289 days left in the year. This is St. Patrick's Day.

Today's highlight in history.

On this date in 1776, British troops evacuated Boston during the Revolutionary War. They had been under siege since the Battle of Bunker Hill seven months earlier.

On this date:

In 1836, the Republic of Texas adopted a constitution.

In 1861, King Victor Emmanuel II was proclaimed ruler of Italy.

In 1891, telephone communication was established between London and Paris.

In 1938, during the Spanish civil war, the loyalist-held city of Barcelona was bombed.

In 1941, the National Gallery of Art was opened in Washington.

In 1953, the last of the U.S. price controls set up in World War II were ended.

Ten years ago: The Soviet Union accused the United States of fighting an undeclared war in Vietnam and demanded the removal of American military forces.

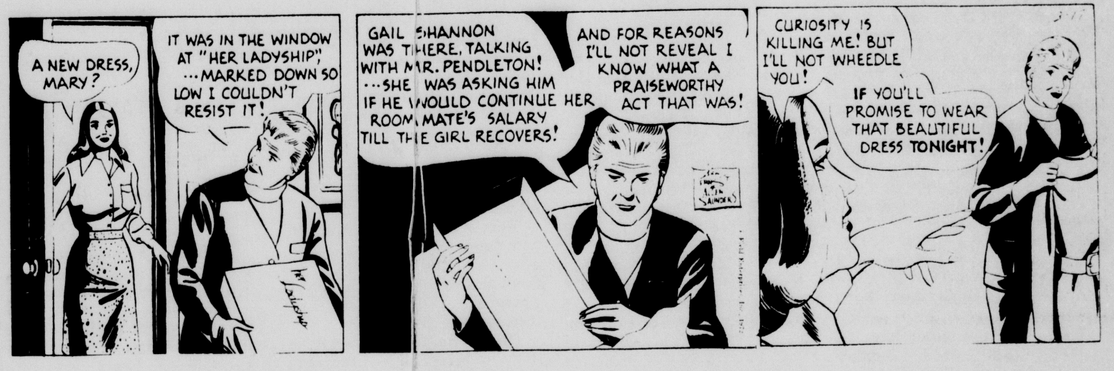

Five years ago: President Lyndon B. Johnson put aside his proposal to merge the Labor and Commerce departments in a new Department of Economic Affairs.

Crusade To Open At First Assembly

Dr. and Mrs. S. J. Scott, of Oklahoma City, Okla. will conduct special services at First Assembly of God church, 306 S. Kingshighway, from Sunday through April 2.

Dr. Scott, who has four degrees and a diploma from Oslo, Norway, has studied religion and customs in a number of European countries and was sent as an ambassador of goodwill to Norway by the Air Force with the exchange cadet program in 1955. For sometime he was regimental chaplain of the 180th Infantry of the 45th Division. He also has served as wing chaplain of the Civil Air Patrol of Oklahoma for seven years and has the rank of Lt. Colonel.

For 18 years, 1951 to March 1969, Dr. Scott was pastor of the one of Oklahoma City's larger churches, Faith Tabernacle. The last year was the most successful year financially for the church which had been enlarged and beautified through the years.

Dr. Scott is a man of wide experience, having traveled extensively, built several churches, served as State President of the Young People of the Assemblies of God and State Sunday School Superintendent at one time. He is author of two books, "The Thief of Time," and "History of Philosophy and Comparative Biblical Views," and was known years ago as "The Flying Evangelist." Both he and Mrs. Scott are pilots.

Dr. S. J. Scott

Mrs. Leenetta M. Scott is a talented musician and artist. Near 7,000 attended the Christmas pageant, "God's Gift of Love," which she wrote and directed at the Oklahoma City municipal auditorium. She directed large presentations there annually for eight years, but has worked with music, art and Christian drama all of her life. Mrs. Scott is author of several publications: "A simplified Method of Sacred Piano Playing," Books 1 and 2; "Piano Versatile Variations;" Choir Specialties;" a wedding song, "God Made You For Me," and a book to assist youth and Sunday School leaders, "Ideas Work Wonders."

Nightly the services will features various phases of her work. Chalk drawings will be made publicly and given to the person bringing the most to the service. There will be illustrated messages from time to time, using local talent in beautiful costumes, with colorful lighting and backgrounds. Mrs. Scott considers the "eye-gate" one of the best methods to teach or preach.

Pastor T. A. McDonough reports services will begin at 7 p.m. each night.

Rolls Increase

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The number of Roman Catholics in the world increased by seven million from 1969 to 1971 but the number of priests kept falling, as it has done steadily for about a decade. Priests were down 4,228 to 347,481.

12 Witnesses Plan To Attend Convention

The Sikeston congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses has announced plans to attend a three-day training program at Cape Girardeau March 24-26.

According to Russell Knauer, presiding minister of the group, about 2,100 delegates from Southeast Missouri and Illinois are expected to attend. The theme of the convention is "Conscience of Our Spiritual Needs."

Knauer stated:

"This theme is appropriate in view of the materialistic attitudes that prevail in human society. The Bible makes clear that the happiness missing from the lives of individuals today is to a great extent due to not recognizing one's spiritual needs."

The featured speaker of the convention will be Henry C. Brewer from the Brooklyn headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses. On the final day at 2 p.m. Brewer will deliver the public discourse, "Are You Marked for Survival?" In discussing this subject Brewer asserted: "World events are developing that make survival uncertain. However the survival through the 'Great Tribulation' mentioned in Bible prophecy is the one all mankind should be concerned with. Only those 'Marked' for survival by Jehovah God will have their hopes realized and will enter into eternal life on a paradise earth."

Knauer reports that Jehovah's Witnesses are visiting homes in 207 lands and island groups to alert people of all the earth to God's requirements for survival. This coming convention is only part of their program to improve this public ministry and to help them to endure in their Christian course of life.

The convention site is the Arena Building. The program is scheduled to begin at 6:45 p.m. Friday and all sessions are open to the public.

New Pastor Comes To Portageville Church

PORTAGEVILLE — The new pastor at First Assembly of God Church is the Rev. Michael D. Jackson, age 24.

Rev. Jackson, wife Marilyn and daughter Michelle Diane, 18 months, came to Portageville from the First Assembly of God of Rutherford, Tenn.

He has held revival services in Alabama, Indiana, Tennessee and Texas.

Jackson went to Rutherford from Houston, Tex. where he worked for three years with Houston Teen Challenge (an Assembly of God Ministry to Dope Addicts, alcoholics and young people in trouble).

He was director of street evangelism and coffee house ministry a year and a half. His wife taught a course to new converts and workers.

Both Reverend and Mrs. Jackson attended Southern Bible College in Houston, and he was president of Southern Ministerial Association. While at college, he spoke at street meetings and assisted in Teen Challenge Rehabilitation Home for dope addicts as chapel speaker and counselor.

Jackson also has worked in jail and prison ministries in Kansas, Texas and Tennessee.

He hopes to work with those of other faiths who are interested in or want to become a part of the Pentecostal movement.

Tierot Family Sings Tonight

A Gospel singing service at 7:30 tonight at the Pentecostal Holiness Church, 328 West North St., will present the Singing Tierot Family of Oklahoma City, Okla.

The singers are on a tour of Missouri, Tennessee and Arkansas sponsored by the Pentecostal Holiness Church.

This week's Uniform INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Dr. William H. Taft

Scripture: Acts 4:32-37; Romans 15

THE REDEMPTION FELLOWSHIP

How can the church be a redemptive fellowship that opens its doors to all who seek help, spiritually, socially, or economically? That is today's challenge facing organized religion.

In the early days of the Church's development the members shared their physical possessions. The Scripture tells us that the believers "were of one heart and soul, and no one said that any of the things which he possessed was his own."

Some consider this to be communism. It wasn't. Rather, it was "communal sharing," not a new practice. Examples appear in the Old Testament of groups sharing their property and possessions.

If one views this as communistic he should review recent events in Russia. In 1971 the communistic hostility continued against the religious groups. The Russians continue to restrict religious leaders and imprison them frequently.

Christianity outlived the problems in the days following the Crucifixion; it will outlive today's problems, although the difficulties are acute. There is much interest today in the quasi-religious world, including witchcraft and Satan worship.

The unity reviewed in Acts and Romans gave redemptive fellowship to those persons who had the same goals, had enjoyed the same experiences, and had voiced a passionate desire for a new life. They had united by an inner spirit.

A major challenge faced by this group was to witness to the ressurection. It was inspired by the testimony of the early followers of Christ. If the church was to grow, such testimony had to be publicized about the land.

In order to achieve this goal, all shared everything they had, spiritually and physically.

Last year an intensive "North American Interchurch Study" was conducted by co-operating Protestant denominations to probe the goodwill and giving habits of members.

"Gratitude to God" ranked as the major reason for giving. The majority believed contributions should be continued even though some of the church programs were not acceptable. Few members would withhold contributions because they opposed certain denominational gifts.

Romans is the longest letter Paul wrote. Here he stresses the teaching phase of his theology. And Paul realized that some church members are strong and some weak.

Church leaders faced then, as now, problems of interpreting God's instruction. When it was written "Feed my sheep" what was meant? Did this refer only to feeding a person's spiritual needs or did it also include the practical, the economic need?

The early Church members viewed their group as witnesses to the group. They were not as separated in their theology as denominations are now.

"Worship is an expression of love" and to be effective it needs to be relevant. What is relevant? Today's youths seek to make the church relevant through such groups as the Jesus people.

Our style of presenting religion differs too. "Jesus Christ Superstar" is a production viewed in different aspects. Young persons see it as relevant. Older members may object to what they label the "entertainment" tag.

Persons are able to witness Christ in many ways. Some do in prayer groups; others publicly demonstrate at large rallies of the Billy Graham type.

All believers must share their love for Christ in a learning Church, through fellowship, and in a reverent manner.

Missionary To Middle East To Speak Sunday

NEW MADRID — The Rev. Paul S. C. Smith, foreign missionary to Lebanon, Jordan, Gaza and Egypt will speak Sunday at the New Madrid Baptist Church.

Reverend Smith received the bachelor of divinity degree in 1959 from Southern Baptist Seminary. He has pastored churches in Louisiana, Kentucky and Mississippi. He was appointed in 1961 by the foreign mission board to Jordan, where he served as hospital chaplain.

He served as chairman of the Arab Baptist Mission of Lebanon, Jordan, Gaza and Egypt in 1965-66 and 1969-70. He was pastor of Jerusalem Baptist Church in Jerusalem in 1965-66 and mission evangelist from 1963-71.

Rev. Paul S. C. Smith

Nazarene Missionary To Speak At Zone Rally

Miss Geraldine Chappell, missionary to India on furlough, will be speaking at a zone rally at Eastside Church of the Nazarene Monday at 7:30 p.m.

On her fourth furlough since 1941, Miss Chappell will share experiences from the missionary dispensaries and hospitals.

She received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Olivet Nazarene College, Kankakee, Ill., her Registered Nurse training from Samaritan Hospital, Nampa, Idaho, and her Bachelor of Science in Nursing Education at Northwest Nazarene College, Nampa, and the Registered Midwifery degee from Frontier Nursing Service, Hyden, Ky.

Churches of the Nazarene on the southeast zone of the Missouri District include Anniston, Cape Girardeau. Charleston, Matthews, Morehouse, Sikeston Eastside and Sikeston First.

Crusade Planned

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Either the Arena or Busch Memorial Stadium is considered as a probable site for a crusade in St. Louis during 1973 by evangelist Billy Graham, a spokesman for an invitational committee said Sunday.

The Rev. George Scotchmer said the Lower Midwest Billy Graham Invitational Committee was assured over the weekend the evangelist would conduct the crusade here next year.

Rev. and Mrs. Paul Fowler

Revival To End Sunday At Eastside

Vibraharp, piano, accordion and trumpet are accompanying the singing and preaching of the Rev. Paul I. and Sandra Fowler of Woodbury, Ga., this week at the Eastside Church of the Nazarene, Ralph Ave. at Betty St.

Services each evening at 7:30 conclude Sunday at 10:35 a.m. and7 p.m.

Beginning his ministry in 1966, Rev. Fowler pastored in Georgia and Colorado, then entered full- time evangelism in 1970. The Rev. C. Conrad Carrigan is pastor of the Eastside church.

Graham Films To Be Shown

PORTAGEVILLE — A five-night series of dramatic and documentary films will open next Wednesday at Trinity Baptist Church with the showing of the full-length feature, "The Restless Ones."

Other films in the series, sponsored without admission charge by the church include "The Heart is a Rebel," "Lucia," and "Shadow of the Boomerang," all full-length color features produced by the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association. The films will be shown as listed on consecutive nights at 7:30 p.m. through Sunday.

"His Land," the final film of the series, will be shown on Sunday at 7:30 p.m. In the morning worship service Don Lock of the Billy Graham Film Ministry will speak on Biblical Prophecy as an introduction to the showing of "His Land."

Described as a "musical journey into the soul of a nation," this film depicts life in Israel and relates it to specific biblical prophecy. It was filmed entirely on locaton in Israel and visits such points of interest as Jerusalem, Tel Aviv, the Sea of Galilee and the Mount of Olives.

Cliff Richard, the popular rock music star of England, who was converted during a Graham Crusade, works with Cliff Barrows to provide the music in the film.

The Rev. Jerry Haughton, pastor of Trinity, noted that all five films represent great achievements in the making of films with a distinct Christian message, because they are also quality entertainment. "The Restless Ones," he said, "is an explosive action film that has been shown in hundreds of theaters across the nation, and has had significant impact upon countless thousands of young lives."

He said that "strengthening the spiritual life of the community through meaningful entertainment" is the main reason the church has undertaken the presentation of this unique film series.

'His Land' Showing Set

NEW MADRID — "His Land" a Billy Graham one-hour musical motion picture in color, featuring Cliff Richard, England's singing star, and Cliff Barrows, member of Billy Graham Crusade team, will be shown at the Baptist Church at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

The film is a journey through the Holy Land, Jerusalem, Calilee, Bethlehem, Tel Aviv, and the Negev, relating today's events to the prophecies of the Scriptures.

Man Pinned Under Car

ESSEX — A 20-year-old Dexter man is in serious condition at Dexter Memorial Hospital today after being pinned beneath his wrecked automobile for nearly four hours this morning.

The mishap occurred, the highway patrol said, at 2:30 a.m., two miles north of Essex, on route FF when a 1960 Ford driven by Wilbur Leon Gaines ran into a parked pickup truck. The patrol said Gaines apparently had gone to sleep at the wheel.

A man living near where the accident occurred said he got up at 6 a.m. and heard Gaines calling for help. He said he called the Dexter Rescue Squad, who took the injured man to the hospital.

Utility Rate Warning

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Price Commission today announced new, sharpened guidelines for utility rates but warned the nation that big increases will be necessary to pay for the service it wants.

The regulations put limits on the rate of return that utilities may realize from increased rates, and added provisions requiring them to take into account increased productivity and to absorb labor costs that increase more than 5.5 per cent.

Also, the commission made provisions to hand over final authority on utility rate increases to existing regulatory bodies that come up with acceptable anti-inflationary policies.

Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. said the regulations would require reductions in some requested rate increases but not in others. He had no estimate of how much utility rates might go up under the new rules.

But he warned, "We urge the consumers of the nation to realize that when you demand service, you have to pay for it. You don't get something for nothing."

He said that four days of public hearings on utility rates made it clear that some large increases are going to be necessary in order to continue "adequate, safe and pollution-free services."

Announcement of the new regulations means the temporary freeze on rates of privately owned utilities will end on or before March 25. Grayson said the commission would take final action on all of the 116 increases before it within 10 days.

On another subject, Grayson attacked Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz for statements "damaging to the stabilization program." Butz has been applauding rising farm prices and vowing to fight any attempts to control them. Raw agricultural products currently aren't under price guidelines.

Grayson, asked about Butz' statements, said he was so disturbed by them that he had typed out a statement before today's news conference.

Reading it, he said that farmers should be expected to make the same sacrifices as everybody else in the economy and should not expect any special catch-up. "The name of the game of catch-up is inflation," Grayson said.

No Races in Puxico

PUXICO — Thursday at 4:30 p.m. was the deadline for candidates filing for city office with City Clerk Martha Ware. The election will be April 4.

Filing for police judge was Dale Sifford, ward one alderman, James Ross who was police judge, resigned.

Filing for ward one alderman was Eddie Sifford.

Filing for ward two alderman was incumbent Junior Elbert Howard.

Port Shutdown Possibility

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A shutdown of all U.S. ports loomed as a possibility today after the Pay Board trimmed a wage increase won by West Coast longshoremen in ending a 134-day dock strike.

There was no immediate comment from Harry Bridges' West Coast International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union Thursday after the Pay Board in Washington lopped about one-fourth of the ILWU's negotiated increases.

Nor was there comment from Bridges' East and Gulf Coast counterpart, President Thomas W. Gleason of the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Union.

But Bridges told his 13,000member union on Feb. 24 that the ILWU and the ILA had agreed that they would join in a nationwide dock strike if the Pay Board touched wage increases won by either union.

The Feb. 16 contract between the ILWU and the West Coast employers' Pacific Maritime Association contains language which permits the ILWU to take strike action within 30 days if the Pay Board refuses approval of the contract.

The Pay Board's staff reported that West Coast stevedoring firms had saved some $1 billion in reduced labor costs through increased productivity since the union agreed to new work rules in 1960.

Nevertheless, business and public members of the Pay Board outvoted labor members 8 to 5 in rejecting the new ILWU-PMA contract as inflationary.

The Pay Board said the new ILWU contract provides for a 16 per cent increase in wages and overtime and a 4.9 per cent increase in employer-funded pension and welfare benefits during the first year of the new 18-month pact.

It voted 8 to 6 to approve only a 10 per cent increase in wages and to allow the 4.9 per cent increase in fringe benefits to stand. The 14.9 per cent total is still higher than the 8.9 per cent called for in the board's standard guidelines.

"The extra allowances were made in recognition of the necessity of producing the income and retirement security which has helped to foster efficient industry production leading to significantly greater output with a continuously declining work force," Pay Board Chairman George H. Boldt said in announcing the decision.

Under the pay provisions of the pact, the West Coast dock workers were to receive a 72cent hourly wage increase, retroactive to Dec. 25, to bring the hourly scale to $5. An additional 40 cents an hour was due July 1.

Glass Pickup On Saturday

Steve Sikes, Jaycee ecology co-chairman, announced today that a glass collection will be held Saturday at the Kingsway Plaza Mall from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Sikes said that the last collection was successful because of glass brought in by the Canalou 4-H club. Collections are held every other week.

Glass can be taken to the Sheltered Workshop near the Sikeston Airport at anytime during the week.

Airport Head Appointed

JEFFERSON CITY — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes yesterday named Henry J. Elmendorf, a St. Charles businessman, as chairman of the newly created Missouri - St. Louis Metropolitan Airport Authority.

Hearnes earlier had named Thomas J. Baker of Essex to head the authority, but withdrew that appointment when it was opposed by St. Louis area Senators.

Baker continues as a regular commission member. St. Louis and St. Louis County will have three members each on the commission and St. Charles, Franklin and Jefferson counties will each have one member.

The authority was created to enable Missouri to compete with Illinois for the site of a second major airport for the metropolitan area.

Mrs. Alcorn Cited

MRS. DARRELL ALCORN was named the 1972 Woman of the Year at the annual Woman of the Year Banquet last night at the Ramada Inn.

'I've Never Felt So Humble'

"I've never felt so humble or honored in all my life," said Mrs. Juanita Alcorn after being named the 1972 Woman of the Year at the 13th annual banquet last night at the Ramada Inn. The banquet was sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's club.

Mrs. Alcorn and her husband, Darrell, operate the Dallell Alcorn Real Estate and Insurance Agency. She has served as president and vice president of the Business and Professional Women's club and the Coalesce Club. She has been active in Sikeston Little Theatre, Womens Division of the Chamber of Commerce and the Sikeston Board of Realtors.

Mrs. Alcorn has served as a Gray Lady at the hospital five years, was a Girl Scout leader 11 years and was ribbon and queen chairman for the SEMO Shrine Mounted Horse Patrol Horse Show 10 years and has been a member of a Parent-Teacher Association.

She has helped to promote dog shows for the SEMO Kennel Club, was president and helped to organized the Sikeston Dinner Dance Club and has served as chaperone for Teen Town.

She is a member of the United Methodist Church and has served as president of the Philathea class, has been a circle chairman and a member of the Wesleyan Service Guild.

Mrs. Alcorn has worked in drives for polio vaccine immunization, March of Dimes, Cancer, Heart Fund and UNICEF.

As a young couple living on a farm, she and her husband were selected as one of Southeast Missouri's outstanding young farm couples.

For 14 years she was associated with Robbins Educational Tours and conducted senior trips for schools in Missouri, Arkansas and Illinois, at times taking students on tours at her own expense.

Mrs. Alcorn worked for Berry Tours of Chicago and Kansas City as escort on adult tours and for four years has conducted six tours a

Block Busing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon urged Congress today to temporarily block any new court orders for pupil busing and to consider promptly longer-range legislation aimed at narrowing the gap between rich and poor schools.

In an 8,000-word special message, Nixon called for a moratorium on busing orders that would expire on July 1, 1973—or sooner should Congress act on broader legislation at some earlier date.

On his own, Nixon directed the Justice Department to "intervene in selected cases where the lower courts have gone beyond the Supreme Court's requirements in ordering busing."

Acting Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst told newsmen his staff will review "every open case" involving busing with the aim of urging the lower courts to delay busing orders until Congress acts on the requested moratorium.

Kleindienst said his department "almost certainly" would try to delay busing orders affecting school systems in Richmond, Va., and Denver. He declined to speculate on other likely target cases.

Although Nixon said he favored legislation rather than a constitutional amendment to halt further busing orders, he told Democratic and Republican leaders of Congress at an early morning White House conference that he did not want to discourage consideration of an amendment.

The President said a constitutional amendment would be the only alternative should the courts strike down his requested moratorium as unconstitutional.

Nixon expressed confidence in his special message that the measure would meet constitutional tests. On this score, Kleindienst said "I think there can be no legitimate doubts whatsoever."

In adition to calling for the moratorium, Nixon proposed a new equal educational opportunities law that would channel special federal aid to schools with a large enrollment—over 30 per cent—from poor families.

The amount of aid would total about $2.5 billion and would amount to roughly $300 for each pupil coming from a poor family.

Before sending his message to Capitol Hill, Nixon held an early morning White House conference with the Democratic and Republican leadership of the Senate and House.

The message was a follow-up to a television-radio address Thursday night in which he argued that his proposals "would focus our efforts where they really belong—on better education for all of our children rather than on more busing for some of our children."

In his message to Congress, Nixon argued that his recommendations "would not roll back the Constitution, or undo the great advances that have been made in ending school segregation, or undermine the continuing drive for equal rights."

He said "this administration means what it says about dismantling racial barriers, about opening up jobs and housing and schools and opportunity to all Americans."

Purse Strings Tighten On Higher Education

John King

State legislatures no longer have their pocketbooks open for higher education, John King, chairman of the department of higher education at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, said last night.

He spoke to 385 at the spring meeting of the Semo Association of School Administrators and the Semo School Boards Association at the high school cafetorium.

King said legislatures are concerned that perhaps we are running out of tax resources and that other things such as Social Security, highways, and prison reform, deserve the tax dollars more.

Part of the problem for educators, King said is not being able to explain properly just what they are doing. Professors also are producing less in terms of actually working with students.

Also, King said, the legislatures are concerned about disturbances, drugs, and morality on the campuses. Actually, he said, studies show that college students today share most of the beliefs- and just as strongly - their parents share.

Ironically, King said, this was one of the reasons why there were so many disturbances on campuses last year. Students thought they saw so many things wrong, they were sure they had to change the system.

King made three suggestions he thought would improve higher education. He suggested that young people be given more work experience while in school. All those years of school, King said, can remove a person from reality.

A sense of purpose must be developed in young people, he said, or they will simply drift through life.

Education must have a greater "inclusiveness," King said. We are still running an elitist system, he said, not drawing all of society into the educational process.

School Policies In Book

After nearly a year and a half of work, the policies of the R-6 board of education have been compiled into a book. It was adopted by the board in a unanimous vote.

The document was written when it became apparent to school system officials that it was necessary to reduce confusion as to where the board stood on issues. The committee of board members, administrative staff and faculty, who produced the book, wrote that the material "represents the corporate thinking and philosophy of the entire school district. No one person or small group can be singled out as the primary developer or contributor."

The book will soon be published, according to Sam Harbin, superintendent of education, and will be available for public inspection about July 1.

The book is primarily a compilation of past board policies, state laws and regulations.

The committee did not attempt to change any policies when drawing up the document, although they made a few minor changes. One such change, a rule which stated that a bus driver may not drink alcoholic beverages just before driving, was changed to read he may not drink just before driving or while driving.

Included within the book is the subject of discipline. "The willful violation of the ordinary rules of propriety that govern good society will be treated as a violation of written rules," the committee wrote.

They added that a principal can suspend any student for violation state laws, misbehavior, "or for any other sufficient reason." Corporal punishment (defined as "paddling with a paddle") must be used with restraint and only after other methods of discipline fail, the committee said.

For those with complaints against or involving school personnel, the book details the steps to be followed in airing grievances. The complaint must be registered with the principal or department superintendent in charge of the area in which the complaint originated.

If those complaining are not satisfied, the next step is to request a hearing before the board. If the board agrees to hear the case, a hearing date will be set and persons involved will be invited to testify.

The book lays out a series of codes of conduct for teachers, superintendants and the board itself. Codes of conduct for students at the junior and senior high schools have been announced before and are not superceded.

Summed up, the teacher's code states that teachers must deal justly and impartially with students and aid them regardless of who they are.

The nine- point code for the superintendents could be summed up by saying they must strive to provide the finest education possible and justify the public trust of their position above "any economic or social award."

The 15- point code for the board is a general statement of the philosophy which guides it. The code might be summed up in one of the points, which exhorts each board member to "resist every temptation and outside pressure to use my position as a board member to benefit either myself or any other individual or agency apart from the total interest of the school district."

Marriage Ceremony

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Mr. Magistrate, hand that $10 bill back to the bridegroom.

Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth held today that magistrates, as judges of courts of record can perform marriage ceremonies. But the state Constitution also says:

"No judge or magistrate shall receive any other or additional compensation for any public service . . ."

Danforth said, "In our view, any compensation received for such service regardless of whether it is called a fee or gratuity and whether or not it is voluntary or involuntary constitutes 'additional compensation' within the prohibition of Section 24, Article V of the Constitution."

Portageville Dump Closed

PORTAGEVILLE — Mayor Roy Moore today said the city dump of this New Madrid county town located in Pemiscot County has been closed to public dumping of trash.

Moore said Pemiscot County Prosecuting Attorney Art Stephenson requested the dump be closed because residents living near the dump complained of the foul odor.

Moore said he would meet Monday with the Pemiscot county court to find out what should be done and hopes a solution can be worked out.

"I really don't have any suggestions for the citizens on what to do with their trash," he said.

St. Louis Man Fined for DWI

There were 14 cases heard last night in city court by judge James Sickal.

Gene Truett Shaw, 2728 Wheaton Ave., St. Louis was fined $110 for driving while intoxicated. James Richard Friend, Box 97, Gilliam, was fined $19 for public intoxication. Johnny Sedell Lester, route one, Benton, was fined $29 for careless and imprudent driving. Sam Clayborn, 1721 Ford St., was fined $10 on charges of disturbing the peace.

David Finley Hough, 201 West Wakefield was fined $30 for speeding. Louis Van Montjoy, 1108 Maude St., was fined $25 for speeding. Della May Catlett was fined $10 for careless and imprudent driving. Careless and imprudent driving charges against Chris Edward Hoffman, 211 Kennedy, were dropped on payment of court costs.

A charge of public intoxication against George P. Cook, route one, Essex, was dismissed.

Written pleas were entered by five. Charles Kaiser, 209 Selma, was fined $19 for public intoxication. Joseph M. Shaver, 256 W. Kathleen, was fined $29 for careless and imprudent driving. Kenneth D. Morris, 614 Maude St., fined $29 for speeding. Terry M. Cowan, 105 Selma, was fined $29 for careless and imprudent driving. James D. Buckley, 162 Lee St., was fined $23 for speeding.

DIEHLSTADT — Three positions are open on the Diehlstadt town board to be filed by the April 4 city election.

Filing deadline with City Clerk Kenneth Belt is 5 p.m. Monday.

Filing for the position to date are James Howard, Lawrence Burton, and Len Allen.

Housing Goals Related

The primary goal of the department of housing and urban development is to secure housing for low and middle income people, Elmer E. Smith, regional director of the Housing and Urban Development office in Kansas City, said at a press conference and reception Thursday night at the Holiday Inn.

He told representatives of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission and others that high income people could take care of themselves as far as housing is concerned.

Smith said the function of HUD is to "maintain the present supply of housing, expand that supply, and to improve it".

"There's only one rule after that," he said, "and that is the jobs created from this maintaining, improving, or expanding and products created after that be available to all people on a fully equal opportunity basis."

Smith mentioned that HUD has gotten a bad name recently due to poor performance and it "is not unfounded".

"Thery are 11,500 low income units in the eastern half of Missouri," he said, "and of those units, 9,500 are in St. Louis and 2,500 of those are vacant."

Smith was past director of the St. Louis area office and was appointed regional director of the Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, and Nebraska regions by George Romney, secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

St. Patrick's Day

The color green is worn to represent the shamrock, national flower of Ireland.

Saint Patrick, the Apostle of Ireland, saint of the Roman Catholic church, planted the shamrock because its three small leaves represented the Holy Trinity.

He died March 17, about 461, and Saint Patrick's Day has been observed in America since Colonial days. The day is celebrated in churches, homes, schools and business places.

Loyal sons of Ireland wear a shamrock in their lapels on Saint Patrick's day.

LASER RAYS MAY
OUTSTRIP SCIENCE FICTION

Laser is an acronym for "light amplification through stimulated emission of radiation." It is a thin beam of light with enormous intensity that can cut cloth to a tolerance of 5/1000ths of an inch, or the width of a thread. It can "spot weld" loosened retinas of the human eye with such astronomical speed that the patient has no time to flinch or squirm. It can cut precise holes in the hulls of ships under construction.

Laser devices have been designed to make holograms. These are three dimensional photographs that record changes in materials in great detail. This discovery could revolutionize scientific studies. Lasers cut diamonds with a new accuracy. These are only a few of the civilian uses of the beam.

Equally revolutionary are the possibilities held out by the laser in the military field. "Death rays" that have been laughed off for years as the greatest bugbear ever invented in science fiction are, in fact, a possibility. The United States is vigorously pursuing the fabulous prospect opened up by the laser.

Eberhardt Rechtin, deputy director of defense research and engineering at the Pentagon, says the problem now is to build up enormous bursts of energy in a machine of practical size. Already laser beams have been used in warfare in Indochina for targeting enemy tanks with great effectiveness.

New discoveries as a result of the creation of the laser or through diversification of the uses of the laser may make the atomic bomb defusible. It is a fascinating field.

ELECTIONS IN POLAND

Elections in Communist countries are seldom a matter of great international importance. Despite the much publicized democratic trappings, positions of power and influence are reserved for loyal Communist Party members. On Sunday, March 19, Polish voters will elect their 460-member unicameral parliament or Sejm. Under the 1952 Constitution, the Sejm was recognized as the supreme organ of state authority. Government policy is controlled, however, by the Politburo of the United Worker's or Polish Communist Party. While there are a number of other parties and factions represented in the legislature, all support the party platform.

The Polish Communist Party is led by Edward Gierek, a 58-year-old former miner and regional party chief.Gierek came to power in December 1970 after riots in Gdansk and other Baltic cities. The immediate cause of violence was a sudden and sharp rise in food prices. Discontent over these increases was fueled by general dissatisfaction with the party's economic programs, which were held responsible for low wages, lack of consumer goods, housing shortages and inadequate public services.

Gierek's main task clearly was economic reform. Prices were lowered, food shortages eased and wages and public service expenditures increased. Last June, the regime unveiled a new five-year plan which stressed consumer goods over investment in heavy industry. Premier Piotr Jaroszewicz has said that, "The main theme of our new plan is man and his needs."

There also has been some liberalization on the political front. Gierek travelled widely, listened to grievances and encouraged Poles to discuss their problems with him and other party officials. Writers and intellectuals have been promised more freedom to deal with previously taboo subjects. In addition, Gierek has hinted that the legislature will assume more responsibility and become less of a rubber stamp for the Communist Party programs. Significantly, Gierek called the elections a year ahead of schedule.

ENGLAND LEADS WAY TO ECONOMIC DOWNFALL

Some readers may be interested in this portion of an economic report that a hard-nosed banker relative sends us:

"Since the early 1950s, our English cousins have led the way -- to economic downfall. For some strange reason, we seem bent on making all their errors -- only years later.

"We have just begun fooling around with incomes policies. Britain has over a decade's experience. The recent coal strike is a glaring example of what can go wrong when more fundamental problems are not attacked. A nation whose economic recovery was precarious at best was laid low by a striking union. Great Britain's equivalent of our Pay Board policy limits wage increases to 8 per cent annually (versus our 5½ per cent goal).

"We recently met with one of the most knowledgeable British financial experts and he told us that we could not begin to comprehend how gloomy the mood was over there. He reported the feeling was that the country had to stand firm or all incomes policies would collapse. The Heath government under attack politically (because of Northern Ireland), economically (because of the Common Market squabble) was fighting indeed for the very principle of curtailing inflation through an incomes approach.

"As we all know, the government not the union caved in. The miners were granted a 10 per cent increase because "It is a dirty job' and deserves special consideration. Can you imagine how every other laborer now feels in England? The dam is broken; the flood will come. We now predict before the year is out, Britain will undergo a monetary crisis as a result of its faltering economy. It will precede or be in conjunction with an equally serious dollar crisis. We say again that inflationary forces will not be curtailed unless the roots of inflation are attacked. Incomes policies, government fiat and anything else you like will fail. Curtailment of massive governmental deficits, abandonment of wild increases in money supply, keeping a relationship to sound backing of currency, prohibition of uncontrollable and unsound credit -- these are the things that will stop inflationary tendencies. And, at the root of these things lies the acceptance of reality on the part of the people in that they cannot have what they are unwilling to pay for without disastrous results in the future."

MAN-MADE DIAMONDS
INDUSTRY BOON

Whatever significance they may have for the fair sex, diamonds are definitely one of industry's best friends.

To be exact, man-made diamonds. Or to be more exact. "Man-Made," with capital letters. This is the trademark of the company which proved the feasibility of commercial production of synthetic diamonds 15 years ago and which remains the world's leading producer.

It was in February, 1957, just one year after announcing the capability to make diamonds, that General Electric delivered its first customer shipment — a total of about 10,000 carats, or a little more than 70 ounces, with a value of about $50,000.

Today, manufactured diamonds account for more than 50 per cent of all the industrial diamond abrasive used world wide and the price is half what it was in 1957.

Man-Made diamond is made by heating graphite and a metal catalyst — it can be chromium, manganese, iron or any of a number of other metals- to high temperature while applying high pressures. The idea is to duplicate nature's own pressure cooker a hundred or more miles inside the earth.

The graphite dissolves in the catalyst and, provided that the pressure is maintained, crystallizes as diamond when the temperature is reduced. The products are usually less than a 200th of a carat in weight.

But that's big enough. And because of the steady supply and because many different types of diamonds can be created by controlling what goes into the pressure cooker, artificial diamond has become a major tool.

Industrial diamond today is used to slice germanium semiconductors, polish the surface of wafer-thin silicon crystals, cut cured conceret, masonry and slabs of marble and granite, take the rough edges off automobile glass, cut and polish gem stones, drill holes in porcelian insulators, sharpen ultra-hard tungsten carbon tools, and so on and on and on.

THE NURSING HOME
PROBLEM

The Legislature shows signs of enacting a law that will place all "boarding" or "nursing homes" under supervision of the State Board of Health, and subject to inspection.

We have no doubt there are many such living places in which conditions could be improved, and should be, although we can't from personal knowledge point to any particular ones.

We are, however, afraid of what may happen if the State Board of Health takes over.

If its requirements are for something less than a perfect set-up, but one in which people can live safely, happily and healthily, then the new law would probably be a fine one to have.

But -- if the Board of Health comes up with requirements it now demands in nursing homes such as that in Monroe County, the operational costs of such establishments will skyrocket to a point where thousands of people will no longer be able to stay in them.

No alternative is offered for taking care of those who well may be without any sort of home or care.

Legislators need to take a good look at this and require regulations which will enable present homes to continue operation if we are to avoid having thousands of homeless aged people in Missouri. — Paris Appeal.

ZERO GROWTH WOULD HARM POOR THE MOST

Those who advocate "zero growth" for the American economy "are guilty of a callous complacency," according to the president of the American Petroleum Institute, Frank N. Ikard.

"I charge them with a cruel indifference to the very real material needs of millions of Americans who have not yet achieved their full share of American influence," he said.

Mr. Ikard asked: "Is the job of American industry finished? Shall we now devote ourselves merely to managing the status quo? Ask the 25 million men, women and children who barely subsist in poverty on family incomes of less than $4,000 a year. Ask them in Appalachia. Ask them in the dismal ghettos."

The API president said that the wealth needed to solve our social problems will come from the steady growth of our economy and the steady expansion of our industry, especially the petroleum industry, "because we supply the energy for the increase in mechanical productivity that makes growth possible."

Mr. Ikard said that a "potentially serious" energy gap now exists in this country. Demand for energy has been rising about five per cent a year in the United States, four times as fast as the population. He added that the demand is expected to double by 1985.

COURAGEOUS STATEMENT

Congresswoman, Edith Green, in a courageous statement, has taken exception to the idea that a college education is a necessary attainment for every living soul. She declares: "Too much emphasis has been placed on a four-year education as a prerequisite of success and happiness...". She said college entrance requirements have been waived in too many cases to take in persons who are incapable of competing at that level. The result has been students who are not accepted and cannot accept college life at the four-year level. She attributes much of the campus unrest of today to the fact that there are people in college who should not be there. She said she would prefer to see extensions of vocational and technical education for those whose intellectual bent leads them in that direction. Her remarks make sense.

ART PROFESSOR SCULPTS
GIANT BALER TWINE BALL

George Busher, professor of art at Susquehanna University in Pennsylvania, gets all wrapped up in his work. He sculpts with baler twine.

His latest work of art is a ball of baler twine, with a circumference of 37 feet and more than 117,000 feet of twine carefully wound into place. He calls it "Ball" and to complete it at Sperry Rand's New Holland, Pa., plant took more than two months of work on weekends and between classes, with student assistance.

Professor Bucher has been sculpting in baler twine for more than ten years and his work has been exhibited in numerous shows and art museums. Included in his shows are figures ranging from a tiny eagle, less than six inches high, to an awesome figure of a man eight feet tall.

CALIFORNIA DECISION

In a landmark decision that may be a portent of things to come from a higher court, the Supreme court of California has abolished the death penalty, basing its action on a series of legal findings including "cruel and unusual punishment." If the state doesn't get the decision overturned through appeals or new legislation, those men condemned to death in capital punishment cases will escape the gas chamber. Among those is Charles Manson.

Another aftermath of the decision was the granting of right of bond to communist Angela Davis who faces trial on a charge of murder growing out of a courtroom shooting in which a state judge was brutally murdered. MissDavis, a radically-orientated school teacher who espouses the cause of anarchy, will still have to face trial unless, of course, she jumps bond.

The high court is right in one facet. The taking of a human life is cruel. But the taking of human life didn't start with the state of California. It started with the invasion of the residence of Actress Sharon Tate and the commission of homicidal acts on her and her guests. It started with the invasion of a California courtroom by shotgun-wielding radicals who killed the judge and others. And it started in many other places where murder-prone persons killed the innocent. Society cannot tolerate this. It didn't in Biblical times when society demanded and got the supreme penalty. In those ancient days may offenses that were death penalty cases are now considered misdemeanors. The wisdom of those legislative bodies in the various states that prescribed death in murder offenses in not challenged here. The bulk of society must be protected. The criminal should be made to pay when he has exhausted his last appeal.

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — A few disgruntled congressmen, guardians of the prized pork barrel, held a secret grump session the other day.

Attending were congressmen who, inpublic, pay lip service to the environmental movement. But in secret, they complained bitterly about its impact on their pet public works projects.

They were particularly incensed over lawsuits that are holding up construction. At one point, Rep. Bob Jones, D-Ala., denounced federal judges as a "bunch of ignoramusses." And Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., thinking no doubt his secret views would never get out to his fishermen constituents, blurted: "The hell with the fish!"

Nothing is dearer to the hearts of congressmen than federal projects, known in political parlance as "pork." Most of the pork is dished out by the House Public Works Committee, whose members are upset over the environmental restraints upon their projects.

They gathered behind closed doors to discuss their grievances. Appropriately, they met beneath a portrait of their former chairman, Rep. Charles "The Boss" Buckley, D-N.Y., who once exulted that he was getting his share of the public pork.

We have now obtained a 56-page transcript of the secret proceedings. As acting chairman, Jones complained about "these insipid and multitudinous suits filed in these courts....

ATTACK ON JUDGES

"These judges relish the opportunity," he groused, to stop construction of pork-barrel projects. Injunctions "are being maliciously used to halt the projects that Congress has worked for years and years and years to accomplish."

He added sourly that "you have a bunch of ignoramusses who are judges who are not respecting what has been done here."

Agreeing, Rep. Bill Harsha, R-Ohio, also lambasted "Mr. Nader and his group that has us tied up in court." He referred to the delay of pet projects while the federal government makes sure they won't harm the environment. Representative Pat Caffery, D.-La., a spokesman for Big Oil, complained that the federal environmental protection laws had held up plans to lease oil and gas lands off the Louisiana coast.

"All of a sudden at the 11th hour,"he whined, "the court grants....an injunction...blocking these lease sales." He didn't mention that the court acted to prevent a disastrous oil spill such as fouled the California coast.

Representative Roger Zion, R-Ind., chimed in to call the present conservation laws "ridiculous and silly."

Then Jim Wright, white teeth flashing, began to assault the environmental acts. Dams and buildings had been "brought to a screeching halt," he snorted, while the federal government weighed the effects on the environment.

"That is just a monstrous thing," he huffed. He was willing to see people protected by the laws, he said, but "the hell with the fish.

He proclaimed that he wanted "to find something that will short-stop all of these little pestiferous suits that are hamstringing the programs."

WEAKENING THE LAWS

As one member after another stood up for pollution, slow-witted Rep. Jim Kee, D-W.Vá., tried to understand what the discussion was all about. "Under what authority or pecking order,"he asked, "does the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) have the right to ...hold up actions? We are the ones who are elected by the people."

Committee staff members patiently explained to Kee that public projects were held up under laws already on the books. But committee counsel Richard Sullivan urged that the laws should be revised to circumvent the tough environmental impact statements now required before a project can be started.

The committee immediatley hammered out a bill that would permit EPA to give some of its powers to the states, which are more vulnerable to the pressure of the big polluters

Footnote: During a lull in the secret discussion, Harsha asked Caffery: "What does the gentleman contemplate doing" in November? "Well, " drawled the congressman from Louisiana, "I may run for the city limits." When his constituents discover he has sold them out to the oil and gas interests, this may be prophetic.

International Telephone and Telegraph has insisted that its $400,000 pledge to the Republican convention was merely a routine contribution that hotels normally offer to bring conventions to town.

It is quite true that hotels pony up cash to attract convention business. But the largest hotel chain in the San Diego area contributed only $24,000 toward the GOP Convention. ITT owns the Sheraton chain, the second largest in the area. Its minimum commitment would have been less than $24,000.

Instead of that, ITT wrote a check for $100,000 and offered to make good another $300,000 if the conference bureau failed to raise the cash from other sources. In other words, ITT guaranteed up to $400,000 of the $600,000 total that the conference bureau promised in cash to the Republican Party for bringing the conference to San Diego.

Now, giant conglomerates don't commit $400,000 out of the goodness of their hearts. ITT expected a return on its investment. What the conglomerate wanted most of all was to stop an anti-trust suit intended to strip ITT of its prize subsidiary, Hartford Fire Insurance.

Exactly eight days after ITT pledged $400,000 to subsidize the Republican National Convention, the anti-trust suit was dropped. No amount of wool gathering in the Senate hearing is going to cover up these basic facts.

Inside White House: Troika tells president in private huddle 4-month-old Phase two has succeeded

WASHINGTON — If you work for a living there's a troika in your life and pocketbook. And at 3 p.m., March 7, it walked into the White House Oval Room and discussed the four-month -old Phase Two with President Nixon. They -- meaning hard-nosed Treasury Secretary John Connally, Budget and Management director, soft-voiced George Shultz, and professorial Herb Stein, chairman of Mr. Nixon's Council of Economic Advisors -- rapped with the boss."

He liked what the Troika told him. They were encouraged -- though the strident voice from West Coast dockwallopers' leader Harry Bridges was heard across the land saying, "We sure as hell don't like his (Nixon's) Phast Two program."

The Troika was encouraged. It was not much disturbed by Bridges' threat to shut down the nation's ports if the Pay Board shaved a penny off his 72-cents-an-hour increase -- meaning a ceiling-cracking 16.9 per cent the first year.

Apparently the enfant terrible of the west Coast hadn't read the small print of the Economic Stabilization Act. Any such strike could be ended swiftly by court injunction under powers given the Cost of Living Council and the President. There could be criminal as well as civil action. Nobody would bother trying to put Bridges in the pokey, but fines could force the union to go broke.

Furthermore, to shut down the nation's ports, the Western longshoremen would need East Coast dockers' help. And though Bridges has been boasting of class collaboration with men he called demons not too long ago, namely, national AFL-CIO leaders, some of them have been in touch with the White House assuring it that Bridges had no right to commit them to strangling the nation.

One East Coast waterfront leader put it succinctly: "Bridges is nuts if he thinks we're going out with him.

Meanwhile back in the Oval Room Tuesday, March 7, the Troika and the President agreed that all is going well. The Pay Board is functioning. There'd be trouble only if wholesale prices continued upward through May.

As for the Price Commission, which came in for so much Madison Avenue clean living publicity, it is massaging its cases too much. It is not applying overall policy. It is chasing pennies. It has no enforcement. The AFL-CIO price monitoring operation with 35,000 men in the field has the Price Commission over a barrel and will slap it with staves during this panel's own open hearing on March 28.

The big price bulge is in food. But "raw" food controls would mean rationing, black marketering, the point system and all its abuses. So the Price Commission is stuck in its barrel.

But not so the Pay Board. It is rolling. In the past four months, despite the heavy coal and rail increases, the average wage hike has been 4.3 per cent for 4,659,080 workers.

It can now be reported here that the Pay Board is about to set up a mini-board called the Committee on Cases and Appeals. And labor is going along. It will be tripartite -- separate from the Pay Board, with its own staff, its own decisions, its own executives.

The mini-board will not be made up of Pay Board members -- but of appointees quite different from the current staff. Thus the Pay Board will become a sort of Supreme Court with the Committee on Cases and Appeals sitting as a lower district court. The Pay Board will go on an easier, less regular schedule.

Its decisions will be final -- unless someone protests and asks for a review by the Pay Board itself, en banc, the full 15 members. Or if the board, through its chairman, Judge George (Gid) Boldt, decides to reserve some policy-setting case for itself.

And thus the Pay Board members can take a holiday; eat food instead of cardboard sandwiches, return to families from whom they've been away so long they may be asked for identification.

So Phase Two, no longer a brawling, squalling infant, is functioning. It has made its impact on wages -- which were away out in some fields. It has not yet saddled prices of food.

It is here for the duration. If the prices run away, if Bridges and his longshoremen by some slight chance do match their agitation with action, the Cost of Living Council can always restructure the whole operation. Its Executive Director Donald Rumsfeld tells me there is power in the stabilization law and, if necessary, he, the council, and the President intend to use it.

But this isn't likely. Not judging from what the Troika told the President for an hour and a half. But the proof of the story isn't in the Oval Room -- but in the supermarkets of the land. Wages are topping off. Now the turn is to prices.

THE START OF SOMETHING BIG. # Incentives Urged For Technology

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has proposed a bundle of incentives to industry—including some modest tax relief, credit aids, federal cost-sharing, and even prizes— to develop new products and processes.

In a special message to Congress Thursday, Nixon promised a partnership of government and industry to marshal science and technology in solving economic problems at home and reviving American competitiveness in world trade.

The message disappointed some industry leaders who have urged changes in the antitrust laws to encourage corporations to pool research-and-development funds for projects too big or risky for single firms.

Nixon invited the pooling of resources and sharing of profits, but did so by giving assurances, in effect, that his administration will not take antitrust action against combinations seeking needed technological breakthroughs as long as their actions do not foster monopoly.

The message reported that firms in two major industries already are pooling their resources. Electric utilities have pledged $25 million a year for the next 10 years to develop a liquid metal fast-breeder nuclear reactor, as a demonstration power plant. This, said Nixon, is part of a larger effort by electrical utilities to raise $150 million a year for research and development in producing clean electric power.

Gas companies, through the American Gas Association, have raised $10 million to accelerate their pooled effort to convert coal into gas, the message said.

Other major goals of the technology drive, Nixon said, are rapid, safe and pollutionfree transportation; measures to reduce loss of life and property from natural disasters; improvement of drug-abuse rehabilitation programs, and stepped up medical research.

Although it is known that many tax-incentive proposals to speed research have been studied by the White House, Nixon's message made only one tax request—enactment of the smallbusiness tax bill pending since last year.

The message also asked Congress to increase the ratio of federal financial support to small business investment companies, to increase their ability to lend to small, high-technology firms which, Nixon said, have had "such a distinguished pioneering record."

Experiments to test a variety of partnership arrangements between government agencies, private firms and universities will be set up under sponsorship of the National Science Foundation and the National Bureau of Standards, Nixon said.

Urban Renewal Project Begins

CHARLESTON — Scattered rain showers failed to dampen the spirits of city officials and citizens who gathered Thursday afternoon at the intersection of Main and West Marshall streets to witness the ribbon cutting ceremony and signing of the city's annual arrangement contract by Mayor Sam Story and Elmer E. Smith, regional director of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, from Kansas City.

Gov. and Mrs. Warren E. Hearnes were present. The event marked the beginning of the $4.3 million urban renewal project.

Twenty minutes later the first condemned house in the project area was demolished by bulldozer followed by a bus tour through the designated urban renewal area, concluding at the nearly completed housing project in Kimes Addition.

Charleston is one of two annual arrangement cities in Missouri and as such will sign yearly agreements for financing of the HUD programs it needs. The annual arrangement will permit coordination of urban renewal, public housing and water and sewer improvement projects.

Trip To Hear Mrs. Beard Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee today postponed indefinitely its planned trip to Denver to take testimony from Mrs. Dita D. Beard, the lobbyist for International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. whose memorandum has caused controversy over her company.

John Holloman, counsel for the committee, made the announcement. The trip had been planned for next Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. Beard, now in a Denver hospital, has been reported suffering from a heart ailment.

Committee testimony Thursday developed that within a day of learning that columnist Jack Anderson had a private ITT memorandum in his possession, ITT mobilized its full Washington staff to destroy all documents that might be "misued or misconstrued" by Anderson.

On Feb. 24, an Anderson associate, Brit Hume, appeared at ITT's Washington office with a memo written by Mrs. Beard.

The next morning, W. R. Merriam, head of the office, told the staff of 25 there was a possibility of theft and that they were to check to see if any documents were missing.

"At the same time they were told to remove any documents that were no longer needed for current operations as well as documents which, if put into Mr. Anderson's possession, could be misused or misconstrued by him so as to cause unwarranted embarrassment to the people mentioned therein," the Senate Judiciary Committee was told Thursday.

Howard J. Aibel, ITT senior vice president and general counsel, said that after the meeting staff members and their secretaries reviewed their files and disposed of what he called unneeded documents, most of them old and outdated materials.

Most of the material was disposed of in a shredding machine.

Five days later, Anderson published a column based on the Beard memo which he said linked ITT's pledge to help underwrite the Republican National Convention with the settlement of three antitrust suits against ITT.

Hume testified last week that Mrs. Beard told him some of the material put through the shredder dealt with the subject under investigation by the committee. ITT officials have denied it.

Aibel told the committee that ITT officials did not know exactly what material was destroyed but it consisted mainly of old speeches, press releases and clippings, old correspondence current with issues in 1962 and 1963 and brochures dealing with hotels in San Diego.

Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., told the ITT official: "Do you know how incriminating this looks on its face? Hume comes in with a memorandum and the next day huge amounts of documents are thrown into a shredder."

Duncan Freed

STE. GENEVIEVE, Mo. (AP) — A circuit court jury in Ste. Genevieve County has acquitted Jackie Norman Duncan, 26, of Blytheville, Ark., of two charges of first-degree murder.

The verdict of innocent was returned Thursday in connection with the shooting deaths last July of Diana Overturf, 21, and Granville L. Welch, 26.

The trial was shifted here on a change of venue from Hillsboro, Mo. It began Wednesday.

The bodies of Welch and Miss Overturf were found July 3 in the back seat of Welch's car near Murphy, Mo. Both had been shot in the chest.

Duncan testified he had seen the car in which the bodies were found but that he did not stop and look inside and did not kill the two persons.

Another man was arrested earlier in the killings. Murder charges against him were dropped.

Weird Weddings Not For Everyone

Dear Ann Landers: Who do you think you are to tell a person that she is an oddball or a weirdo just because her idea of a wedding doesn't conform with yours? Has it occurred to you that individuality is very important to some people and that the ability to express one's self freely is part of today's youth culture? What is normal anyway? And who is to judge? Surely not Ann Landers, the square of all time. --We The People

Dear People: My apologies. Of course you are right. How rude of me to suggest that there might be something peculiar about getting married under Lake Michigan in swimming suits with snorkel tubes. Every normal minister wears water-wings on his rubber diving suit and all sane and sensible wedding parties come fully prepared to be lowered into the lake on a submersible platform. Please forgive me for suggestion that there was anything strange about this. I lost my head.

Dear Ann Landers: I realize you're not a travel writer but I consider you a friend, so I decided to ask for some help.

My husband passed away three months ago and I'm just now coming out of my grief. I'm making plans to go to Europe. It will be my first trip abroad. Can you give me a few packing guidelines and some travel hints? It would mean a great deal. Thanks very much.--Maiden Voyage

Dear Maiden: The cardinal rules for any trip are these:

(1) Take half as many clothes as you think you'll need and twice as much money.

(2) If you don't wear it at home, don't take it on a trip. This goes for fancy extras -- or a skirt or dress that's a smidge too tight.

(3) Never put a bottle of anything liquid in your suitcase. If it can spill, it will. All liquids and creams should be placed in plastic bags.

(4) Pack systematically so you'll know where everything is. It's maddening to have to pull everything apart to find a pair of hose.

(5) Don't take more luggage than you can carry personally in an emergency.

(6) Keep your passport, travelers' checks, jewelry and cash in your shoulderstrap handbag at all times. Wear it slung over yourself and be alert to pickpockets whose most lucrative hours are spent in airports and train stations.

Have a wonderful time and send me a post card.

Dear Ann Landers: You have frequently cautioned women against baring their souls and telling a fiance or a husband about a past indiscretion. This is excellent advice and I hope your male readers realize that it goes for them, too.

After 14 years of what I thought was a solid marriage my husband uncorked the sickening details of an affair he had been having for four years and announced, "It's over now." I sat stunned as he described the curlycues of deception and the masterful network of lies. What a blow to my self-esteem! How could I have been so completely fooled?

Although his confession was made nearly a year ago, and he has been a model husband in every sense of the word, I find it difficult to believe anything he says. I hate myself for my lack of trust but I can't help it. I know his feeling of guilt made him confess, but how I wish he had gone to a clergyman. He expressed enormous relief after he delivered himself of the burden, but he did not really dispose of it, he has handed it to me. --Breaking Point In Portland

Dear B.P. In Portland: Thanks for letting us know that the shoe can pinch, even when it's on the other foot. Such "confessions" usually contain elements of punishment --whether the "penitent" realizes it or not.

Cactus Flower Well Received By Audience

By JOYCE HAGY

"Oh what a tangled web we weave, when first we practice to deceive," describes last night's opening performance of "Cactus Flower" at the junior high school auditorium.

Attractive, blond Peggy Matthews showed great promise as an xctress as she played the part of Toni Simmons, the beautiful young mistress of Dr. Julian Winston, the dashing, deceitful dentist played professionally by David Boyer.

Igor Sullivan, played by Jamie Terrell, is the cute and available next door neighbor of Miss Simmons, who keeps popping up at the most inopportune moments to Dr. Winston's dismay.

Stephanie Dickinson, played by Sandy York, gives a first impression of being the typical, reserved, nurse receptionist, but as the play progresses and her hidden feelings for Dr. Winston emerges her personality slowly blooms. Her well acted part is the added spice for the comedy.

Harvey Greenfield and Botticellis Springtime, played by Don Stephens and Terri Terrell, are a couple of drinking, freeloading friends of Dr. Winston. Harvey's loud laugh at the right moment is appreciated and keeps a constant chuckle in the audience.

Senor Arturo Sanchez, played by Gary Pearcy, is the Latin lover whose dental phobia is typical of today's dental patients.

Also in the cast were Dale Shaver as the waiter and Terry Dejournett as the music lover.

"Cactus Flower" was written by Abe Burrows and was directed last night by Beth White.

The first play of the year for Little Theatre was strongly received by last night's audience. I recommend an evening of laughter for all ages.

"Cactus Flower" will be presented again tonight and Saturday night at the junior high school auditorium. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

SPRING is coming and children at the Regional Diagnostic Clinic have received new bikes. Two bicycles were donated by the Coalesce Club and a three-wheeler came with the compliments of the Cerebral Palsy Foundation.

Matthews-Whitford Vows Said in Joplin Church

The former Ellen Louise Whitford of Joplin was married to Robert L. Matthews of Sikeston Saturday.

JOPLIN — Before an altar decorated with candelabra entwined with greenery, pink gladioli and white pompons, Miss Ellen Louise Whitford exchanged wedding vows with Robert L. Matthews.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. Ward Conklin Saturday at the First Presbyterian church in Joplin. Wedding music was furnished by Miss Cathey Sours, soloist, and Dr. William Roehling, organist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Whitford of 522 North Pearl Ave., and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Bob L. Matthews, 725 Mimosa, Sikeston.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A-line gown of silk shantung fashioned with an Empire waistline adorned with a floor-length sash of matching fabric. Embroidered lace trimmed the collar and cuffs of the long sleeves, and formed a border on the train. A lace cap accented with seed pearls held her mantilla of silk illusion edged with matching lace and pearls. She carried a cascade of pink tulips, pink pompons tipped in white, baby's breath and ivy.

Miss Mary Whitford attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Linda Ward of St. Louis and Miss Debbie Wieman of Joplin. They wore wine colored Empire dresses trimmed with light pink sashes, and carried white wicker baskets of pink carnations, pompons, baby's breath and ivy.

Mrs. John Gallagher of Cape Girardeau, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Barvara Mawhinney of Joplin were candlelighters.

Serving as best man was John Gallagher of Cape Girardeau. Ushers were Robert Sanders and Bob Godfrey of Kansas City.

The mother of the bride wore a beige knit dress with long sleeves and brown accessories. Her corsage was of pink glamelias. Mrs. Matthews chose a yellow A-line silk wool dress with black accessories and a white glamelia corsage.

John Knox Hall of the church was the scene for a reception after the ceremony. Assisting were Miss Sheila Sharpe, Miss Mindy Key, Miss Collette Cavanaugh and Mis Toni Taylor.

The bride's traveling ensemble was a wine colored double knit dress with camel colored accessories and a corsage from the bridal bouquet.

The couple plans to live in Seattle, Wash. at 1315 N. 40th St., Apartment C. The groom will enter the school of oceanography at the University of Washington in Seattle.

Boots Appear When Women Most Active

NEW YORK — (NEA) — There is a theory that boots as a fashion for women appear when women are most physically active, socially mobile and personally independent. Certainly they lend a machismo air to fashion whether it is the riding habit of the cavalier's lady or the zap of today's liberated woman.

Despite lapses into disfavor during periods of reaction and prim notions of "woman's place" (in Victorian times boots were the badge of the "loose female") boots have symbolized military pride, cowboy vanity, horseman's dash, courtier's elegance and dandy's disdain since their emergence in the 1600s. Whenever women want to adopt these swashbuckling images, they pull on a pair of boots.

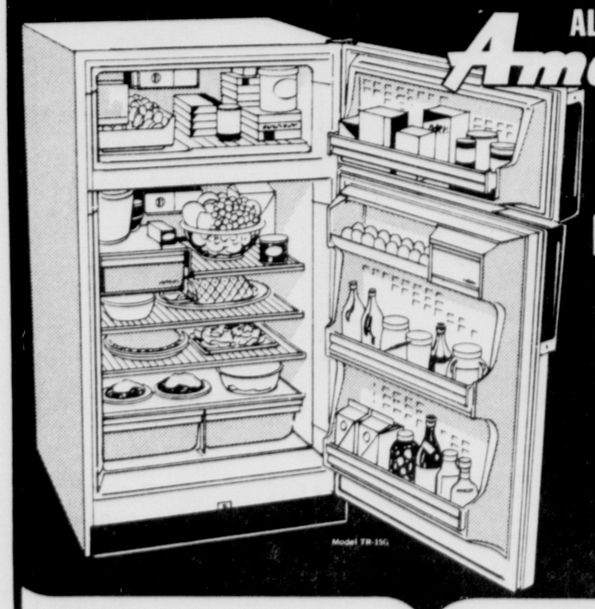

But the popularity of the fashion in the past is not a patch on their acceptance today. Now boots emerge as the major footwear fashion for men and children as well as women. Stores expect to sell up to 100 per cent more boots this year than they did last year.

March Brings Wide Variety of Weather

50 years ago
March 17, 1922

Wesley Jones will be glad to serve his friends at the Blue Front restaurant, which he has recently purchased.

Mr. and Mrs. C.S. Tanner left for St. Louis Sunday, where they will remain for several days.

The fire department was called out at midnight Friday to fight a fire that broke out in a house on North Handy street, owned by Miss D. Powers. The home of John Kaiser, next door, also caught fire and was unable to be saved.

The first 20 days of March have come and gone and no two of them alike. Rain, sleet, snow, wind sunshine, more cold rain and wind. There can be only 10 more days of March weather anyway.

No Jobless Pay For Lax Employe

By Jack Strauss, Herman had about as much ambition as a hibernating bear. Complacent and easy-going , he managed to perform his job with reasonable satisfaction, but with little enthusiasm. And, when his employer asked him to work 15 minutes overtime, he flinched at the thought of the extra exertion and declined the request without further explanation. His employer, in turn, fired him.

Accepting his fate philosophically, Herman strolled over to the local unemployment bureau and applied for benefits.

"Sorry, Mac, " he was told, "you're not qualified to receive benefits. You were fired for willful misconduct.

"Willful misconduct!" repeated Herman. "You must be kidding. I was bounced because I didn't want to work overtime. From 9 to 5, I did everything that was required of me. But there's no law that says a man must work overtime if he doesn't want to. After all, this is still a free country."

Determined to collect unemployment benefits, Herman took his claim to court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Herman to collect unemployment benefits?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that "willful misconduct" has been construed as a wanton or willful disregard for an employer's interests. By flatly refusing to work for a short period of time without explanation, noted the judge, Herman's conduct was unreasonable and unfriendly to his employer's interests. An employer, concluded the judge, is entitled to a dregree of loyalty and willingness to work above and beyond the call of duty. (Based upon a 1959 Pennsylvania Superior Court Decision)

The Prayer from The Upper Room

Do everything without any grumbling or disputing, so that you will be blameless and honest... in the midst of a crooked and perverted age, in which you appear like stars in a dark world, offering men the message of life. --Philippians 2:14 -6

PRAYER: O God, we thank You for the examples of honesty and of constructive words offered from Christian commitment. Help us to witness to Christ, knowing that we are not alone. Amen.

year to points in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

She has taken tours to the New Orleans Mardi Gras and acted as the official hostess at the "Kru of Noblad Ball" at the Roosevelt hotel there for 800 guests.

Last October she was made a "Duchess of Paducah" by Mayor Robert Cherry. Whe was given a key to the city and made an honorary citizen of Mobile, Ala., and recognized from the floor of the capitol in Montgomery.

New Orleans gave her a key to the city and made her an honorary citizen.

Pictures and feature articles about her have appeared in the "New Orleans News", "Down South" magazine" and "Sun and Sand News" of Biloxi, Miss.

She has two daughters, Mrs. Nancy Wymer of Sikeston and Mrs. Urah Vardell of Texarkana, Ark., and one son, William D. Alcorn of Webster Groves.

The banquet speaker was Rep. Calvin D. Johnson, Belleville, a member of the Illinois General Assembly six years.

Johnson kept the audiences attention by injecting jokes about life during depression days and today's politicians.

Johnson said that the greatest enemy of the nation today is laziness. He says he believes that every able bodied man on relief should have to work and punch a time clock for the money he receives.

"Most politicians today have weak knees and a lack of guts", Johnson said. He described a liberal as a man who had both feet planted firmly in the air.

Johnson said the nation was built on hard work "The five- hour a day work day in New York is disgraceful," he said.

"We should teach our youngsters that this is the land of opportunity and there is no substitute for hardwork," he said.

Betty Cole, president of the BP&W Club gave the welcome and Addie Mae Jones was toastmaster.

Joe Williams gave the invocation and benediction and Joel Allen provided organ music.

Mrs. Alcorn received a dozen red roses, a silver bowl presented by Charles Matthews, a distinguished citizen award presented by Robert A. Dempster in behalf of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes; a key to the City of Sikeston from Mayor Lee Shell and a charm from Mrs. Cole.

WHO'S the Salesman:

YOU or Your Wife?

Who would do a better job of selling your house - you or the Mrs.? Which of you is better equipped to deal with people?

The answer may surprise you: it's probably NEITHER! Selling properties takes more than mere good salesmanship . . . FAR more. It takes specialized traning and experience in appraising, negotiating, financing, advertising, closing, etc.

Understanding anatomy never made anyone a Dotor. And being a good salesman doesn't qualify for handling realty. Consult a professional! It will save you endless time and trouble, and probably bring a greater new result.

Blue's Two Little Words - - "I Quit"

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vida Blue said, "I quit," and with those two little words, the Oakland A's lost a pitcher and baseball lost a gate attraction.

"We hate to lose him ... and that's an understatement," said Oakland Manager Dick Williams after the star left-hander announced his retirement from baseball Thursday.

Blue, who reached an impasse in contract talks with owner Charles O. Finley, decided it all wasn't worth it and chucked his career for a public relations job.

The personable Blue had a meteoric rise last year, when he won 24 games and the Cy Young and Most Valuable Player awards in his full season in the majors. He pitched before more than a million fans.

The surprise announcement came after Blue maintained a rock-steady posture against Finley's offer of $50,000 for this year. Blue, represented by lawyer Robert Gerst, was seeking $92,500.

The door for negotiations was left slightly ajar, however, when Gerst said that Blue would consider any higher offers from Finley.

Elsewhere in baseball, there was more off-the-field excitement as the Boston Red Sox became the first team polled to vote against a strike for the Major League Players Association. The vote was 19-4 by the Red Sox, whereas the first 13 teams asked had voted unanimously for a strike.

The Players Association has threatened a strike because of an argument with owners over money for the ballplayers' health benefit plan.

In exhibition baseball, Ellie Hendricks tripled across the tying run in the fifth inning, then singled in he winning run in the seventh as the Baltimore Orioles whipped the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2.

Tony Muser led the Chicago White Sox with four hits and two RBI in a 9-5 triumph over the Kansas City Royals.

A triple by Ted Simmons and single by Jorge Roque broke a tie and gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 2-1 rain-shortened 4½ inning victory over the Houston Astros.

The Cincinnati Reds and New York Yankees played to a 1-1 tie in a game called after 13 innings because of rain. Cesar Geronimo's single drove home the game's first run in the top of the Cincinnati 10th inning. The Yankees tied it in their half of the inning on Johnny Callison's home run.

Craig Nettles drove in six runs for Cleveland as the Indians pulled out a 12-8 comeback triumph over the Chicago Cubs. Hank Aaron and Oscar Brown homered for Atlanta in a 15-14 triumph over the Texas Rangers.

Willie Crawford got three hits, leading Los Angeles over Minnesota 4-2. Boston scored six runs in the sixth inning to beat Detroit 10-6.

Five Oakland pitchers combined for a shutout as the A's topped San Diego 4-0, and the California Angeles scored five times in the first inning and walloped Milwaukee 6-1.

Baseball's Great 'Pie' Traynor Dead

PITTSBURGH (AP) -- Hall of Famer Harold "Pie" Traynor, a genial Irishman once voted baseball's greatest third baseman of all time, is dead at age 72 from a respiratory ailment.

Police said Traynor was stricken Thursday while visiting a friend. He was rushed to Shadyside Hospital by ambulance, but was dead on arrival.

A hospital spokesman said Traynor had been under a doctor's care for the illness and had to be hospitalized twice last year because of it.

Traynor, one of Pittsburgh's most beloved sports heroes, spent his entire 17 seasons in the major leagues with the Pirates. He compiled a lifetime batting average of .320, rapped out 2,416 hits and was a legend with the glove.

He was voted into the Hall of Fame in 1948 and was chosen the greatest third baseman who ever played in a special poll of baseball writers in 1969, the sport's centennial year.

He was born Nov. 11, 1899 at Framingham, Mass.

When Traynor played in Somerville, Mass., as a youngster he was befriended by a priest who directed baseball games. After each contest the priest would treat the youths to a snack.

Most of them requested ice cream, but it is said Traynor's response inevitably was: "I'll take pie, Father."

And thus the nickname.

He entered organized baseball in 1920 with Portsmouth of the Virginia League. The same year, he was brought up to the Pirates for 17 games, then farmed out to Birmingham. He returned to Pittsburgh in 1921 and became the team's regular third baseman in 1922.

Traynor was noted for playing far behind the third base bag and constantly scooping up balls hit far to his right, leading to a legend of his era coined by a baseball writer.

"The batsman smashed a double down the third base line and was thrown out by Traynor."

Traynor also managed the Pirates from 1934-39. He later scouted part- time for the team and worked as a radio sports announcer.

He is survived by his widow, the former Eve Helmer.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Banquet To Honor Babe Ruth Nine

A baseball banquet Saturday night will honor Junior Babe Ruth All Star team for its accomplishments in battling to Missouri State championship and placing second in the Midwest-Plains regional tournament at Belle Plains last year.

Eight states participated in Tournaments. In a decisive game, the Bulldogs pitted their strength against St. Paul, but were defeated 31.

At the banquet at 7:30 p.m. in the Country Club, trophies will be presented to individual players.

Those to be honored are Rick Dyer, Don Taylor, Mitchell Walker, Greg Colwick, Richard Blankenship, John Leible, Jim Matthews, Rick Eisenbach, Mark Couch, Charlie Miller, Kenny Stokes, Bill Shatzley, Terry Winchester, and Jim Saulters.

ED HUGHES was coach of the NFL's Houston Oilers last year. But things have changed and Hughes, who lost his coaching job in a dispute with Oiler owner Bud Adams, had to take a job at a factory that makes dump trucks when the Oilers said he would not be paid for the remaining four years of the five -year contacted he signed in 1971.

Finley Thinks Blue Is Sincere

OAKLAND (AP)—Vida Blue found it impossible to keep a straight face but swore, "I'm serious."

The 22-year-old pitching star of the Oakland Athletics announced Thursday he was leaving baseball, for a public relations job, because A's owner Charles O. Finley won't offer more than $50,000 for the coming season.

Blue called the figure, which Finley has stuck with since Jan. 8, "unfair judged by existing standards in baseball."

He and his attorney, Robert J. Gerst, want a $92,500 contract offer as a reward for Blue's great 1971 season.

The American League's Most Valuable Player, dressed in sports shi rt, slacks and sneakers at the news conference here, said he would go to work for a steel products company in Los Angeles as vice president in charge of public relations.

Blue noticed some incredulous looks on the faces of reporters and photographers and cracked up laughing at that point.

But Finley, at his insurance office in Chicago, seemed to think Blue was sincere.

"I have to assume that he is," Finley said, and repeated what he had told Blue by phone Wednesday night, that $50,000 was his final offer.

Most A's players, in spring training at Mesa, Ariz., still think Blue will pitch this year.

"I think he'll come back to play. He likes to play," said outfielder Angel Mangual, who was to have been Blue's spring training roommate. "Now he's just confused."

Blue, in his first full major league season, received a $14,750 salary last yar. He had a 24-8 record, a 1.82 earned run average, eight shutouts and 301 strikeouts.

The A's won the Western Division title and Blue pitched before more than a million baseball fans.

Finley gave his star pitcher from Mansfield, La., a new blue Cadillac on "Vida Blue Day" at the Oakland Coliseum.

The first postseason honor that went to Blue was the Cy Young Award, as the American League's best pitcher.

In an interview at his apartment here, the day he won that award, Blue was asked if he expected a salary fight with Finley.

"No. I don't think we'll have any problems," said Blue, who already had arranged for Los Angeles attorney Gerst to represent him.

Finley calls his $50,000 offer the best ever made to a secondyear baseball player.

"He had a great year and had a great future ahead of him. As long as he is retiring, I'm happy that he has selected the steel industry and is starting out as a vice president," said Finley, who once worked in a U.S. Steel machine shop.

Beard Under Weather But Out Front

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The day started with the marshal picking up the first two dirves that were hit off the tee, featured a rain delay and ended with Frank Beard talking about his ears.

Beard, who has been hampered by a serious ear infection most of the season, conquered wind and rain with a four-under-par 68 and the first round lead in the $125,000 Greater Jacksonville Open Golf Tournament Thursday.

"I'm not a good wind player," said Beard. "So a score like this on a day like this is some indication of how well I'm hitting the ball."

Beard, a $100,000 winner for the last five years, held a one stroke lead over Al Geiberger, whose last victory was the 1966 PGA National Championship.

Tony Jacklin of England headed a group of seven at 70, two under par on the 6,943 yard Hidden Hills Country Club Course that was swept by gusty winds and deluged with a heavy shower that caused a delay of almost an hour.

Also at that figure were Grier Jones, Bob Murphy, J. C. Snead, Jim Wiechers, George Hixon and Jim Hardy.

Troubled Arnold Palmer broke par for the first time in three weeks with a 71, but had to have six birdies to offset a double bogey, a pair of sixes and three three-putt greens.

Gary Player of South Africa, the defending champion, matched par 72 and Lee Trevino took a 73.

Beard, winner of 11 tour titles and the 1969 Player of the Year, has the reputation of being a colorless golfer. But he was chipper, cheerful and making wisecracks when he finished in the gathering darkness.

"I've never had any excuses—I abhor them—except bad play," said Beard, who has won only $5,200 this season. "But I got this ear infection in the wind and rain at Hawaii.

"By the time we got to the Bob Hope it was so bad I couldn't hear.

Exhibition Tie Broken

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Hitting by catcher Ted Simmons and outfielder Jorge Roque broke a 1-1 tie between the Cardinals and the Houston Astros Thursday and gave St. Louis its first victory in five exhibition starts.

Simmons belted a triple to lead off the fourth. The rookie Roque followed with a single to make the score 2-1.

The game ended in the bottom half of the fourth when rain doused the complex at Al Lang Field. St. Louis had gone 23-innings without scoring before the game with Houston, now 3-3.

Pitcher Bob Gibson allowed three hits and scored the first Cardinal run himself in the third after getting a walk.

Bruin Victory Not Sharp Enough, Says Wooden

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For UCLA it was business as usual in the NCAA Far West Regionals, but in the Mideast Adolph Rupp's Kentucky team surprised Chones-less Marquette.

The Bruins, seeking their sixth straight national basketball title, defeated Weber State 90-58 Thursday night, but Coach John Wooden said he wasn't pleased with the team's performance.

"I doubt we had as much respect before the game for Weber as we should have," Wooden said. "This is sort of like starting a new season. We just didn't look sharp."

Guards Henry Bibby and Larry Farmer hit from the outside and center Bill Walton controlled the backboards as UCLA led 42-25 at the half. But Walton got into foul trouble and was replaced by Swen Nater, who scored 12 points. Walton, an All-American, scored six points.

Weber State Coach Gene Visscher said his team played tight at the beginning as he had feared it would, but "I didn't think we'd stop Walton the way we did."

Bibby finished with 16 points and Farmer with 15. Bob Davis hit 16 for the Wildcats while Riley Kimberly had 14. Walton slightly injured his left knee but is expected to play in the regional final Saturday in Provo, Utah.

Kentucky, No. 18-ranked champions of the Southeastern Conference, spent less than an hour developing the zone defense it used to defeat No. 7 Marquette.

Rupp said he used the zone because he didn't believe his team could handle the Warriors man-to-man.

The Warriors missed, and have missed, center Jim Chones, the All-American who signed a professional contract with the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association. While Chones was playing, Marquette was undefeated and ranked second in the nation.

Ron Lyons scored 19 points for Kentucky in the game at Dayton, Ohio. His shooting overcame a 34-33 Marquette halftime lead. Bob Lackey led the Warriors with 21 points.

Basketball Camp Set

LEXINGTON -- A Hall of Fame basketball camp will be held at Wentworth Military Academy, Lexington, Mo., according to Al McGuire, nationally prominent Marquette University basketball coach, and Walt Shublom, basketball coach as Kansas City, Kansas, Junior College.

Hall of Fame Sports Camps, Inc. is a division of Medalist Industries, Inc., Milwaukee based manufacturer of athletic and leisure time products and apparel. The camp operation is headed by McGuire. Open to boys from 10 through 18, the camp is scheduled for July 16-22.

Shublom, who will serve as camp director, is nationally famous as a prep and collegiate basketball figure. Before he came to his present post, he served as assistant coach at the University of Missouri, and formerly was head basketball mentor at Wyandotte High School, Kansas, where his teams compiled the amazing record of 296-26. He has authored many articles for coaching periodicals, and has also written several books on basketball.

In addition to Shublom, the youngsters will also be given instruction by McGuire who was basketball's coach of the year for 1970-71. Marquette, under the colorful McGuire's direction, has played in five tournaments the past five years, winning the NIT in 1970. McGuire played college ball at St. John's in New York, and professionally with the New York Knickerbockers.

Also on hand at Lexington will be Lucius Allen, former All-American guard at UCLA andnow one of the stars of the world champion Milwaukee Bucks. Allen played under Shublom at Wyandotte high school.

Wentworth Miltary Academy is approximately 40 miles from the center of Kansas City. It is easily accessible by major highways and three railroads.

To Day In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, March 17, the 77th day of 1972. There are 289 days left in the year. This is St. Patrick's Day.

Today's highlight in history.

On this date in 1776, British troops evacuated Boston during the Revolutionary War. They had been under siege since the Battle of Bunker Hill seven months earlier.

On this date:

In 1836, the Republic of Texas adopted a constitution.

In 1861, King Victor Emmanuel II was proclaimed ruler of Italy.

In 1891, telephone communication was established between London and Paris.

In 1938, during the Spanish civil war, the loyalist-held city of Barcelona was bombed.

In 1941, the National Gallery of Art was opened in Washington.

In 1953, the last of the U.S. price controls set up in World War II were ended.

Ten years ago: The Soviet Union accused the United States of fighting an undeclared war in Vietnam and demanded the removal of American military forces.

Five years ago: President Lyndon B. Johnson put aside his proposal to merge the Labor and Commerce departments in a new Department of Economic Affairs.

Crusade To Open At First Assembly

Dr. and Mrs. S. J. Scott, of Oklahoma City, Okla. will conduct special services at First Assembly of God church, 306 S. Kingshighway, from Sunday through April 2.

Dr. Scott, who has four degrees and a diploma from Oslo, Norway, has studied religion and customs in a number of European countries and was sent as an ambassador of goodwill to Norway by the Air Force with the exchange cadet program in 1955. For sometime he was regimental chaplain of the 180th Infantry of the 45th Division. He also has served as wing chaplain of the Civil Air Patrol of Oklahoma for seven years and has the rank of Lt. Colonel.

For 18 years, 1951 to March 1969, Dr. Scott was pastor of the one of Oklahoma City's larger churches, Faith Tabernacle. The last year was the most successful year financially for the church which had been enlarged and beautified through the years.

Dr. Scott is a man of wide experience, having traveled extensively, built several churches, served as State President of the Young People of the Assemblies of God and State Sunday School Superintendent at one time. He is author of two books, "The Thief of Time," and "History of Philosophy and Comparative Biblical Views," and was known years ago as "The Flying Evangelist." Both he and Mrs. Scott are pilots.

Dr. S. J. Scott

Mrs. Leenetta M. Scott is a talented musician and artist. Near 7,000 attended the Christmas pageant, "God's Gift of Love," which she wrote and directed at the Oklahoma City municipal auditorium. She directed large presentations there annually for eight years, but has worked with music, art and Christian drama all of her life. Mrs. Scott is author of several publications: "A simplified Method of Sacred Piano Playing," Books 1 and 2; "Piano Versatile Variations;" Choir Specialties;" a wedding song, "God Made You For Me," and a book to assist youth and Sunday School leaders, "Ideas Work Wonders."

Nightly the services will features various phases of her work. Chalk drawings will be made publicly and given to the person bringing the most to the service. There will be illustrated messages from time to time, using local talent in beautiful costumes, with colorful lighting and backgrounds. Mrs. Scott considers the "eye-gate" one of the best methods to teach or preach.

Pastor T. A. McDonough reports services will begin at 7 p.m. each night.

Rolls Increase

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The number of Roman Catholics in the world increased by seven million from 1969 to 1971 but the number of priests kept falling, as it has done steadily for about a decade. Priests were down 4,228 to 347,481.

Witnesses Plan To Attend Convention

The Sikeston congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses has announced plans to attend a three-day training program at Cape Girardeau March 24-26.

According to Russell Knauer, presiding minister of the group, about 2,100 delegates from Southeast Missouri and Illinois are expected to attend. The theme of the convention is "Conscience of Our Spiritual Needs."

Knauer stated:

"This theme is appropriate in view of the materialistic attitudes that prevail in human society. The Bible makes clear that the happiness missing from the lives of individuals today is to a great extent due to not recognizing one's spiritual needs."

The featured speaker of the convention will be Henry C. Brewer from the Brooklyn headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses. On the final day at 2 p.m. Brewer will deliver the public discourse, "Are You Marked for Survival?" In discussing this subject Brewer asserted: "World events are developing that make survival uncertain. However the survival through the 'Great Tribulation' mentioned in Bible prophecy is the one all mankind should be concerned with. Only those 'Marked' for survival by Jehovah God will have their hopes realized and will enter into eternal life on a paradise earth."

Knauer reports that Jehovah's Witnesses are visiting homes in 207 lands and island groups to alert people of all the earth to God's requirements for survival. This coming convention is only part of their program to improve this public ministry and to help them to endure in their Christian course of life.

The convention site is the Arena Building. The program is scheduled to begin at 6:45 p.m. Friday and all sessions are open to the public.

New Pastor Comes To Portageville Church

PORTAGEVILLE — The new pastor at First Assembly of God Church is the Rev. Michael D. Jackson, age 24.

Rev. Jackson, wife Marilyn and daughter Michelle Diane, 18 months, came to Portageville from the First Assembly of God of Rutherford, Tenn.

He has held revival services in Alabama, Indiana, Tennessee and Texas.

Jackson went to Rutherford from Houston, Tex. where he worked for three years with Houston Teen Challenge (an Assembly of God Ministry to Dope Addicts, alcoholics and young people in trouble).

He was director of street evangelism and coffee house ministry a year and a half. His wife taught a course to new converts and workers.

Both Reverend and Mrs. Jackson attended Southern Bible College in Houston, and he was president of Southern Ministerial Association. While at college, he spoke at street meetings and assisted in Teen Challenge Rehabilitation Home for dope addicts as chapel speaker and counselor.

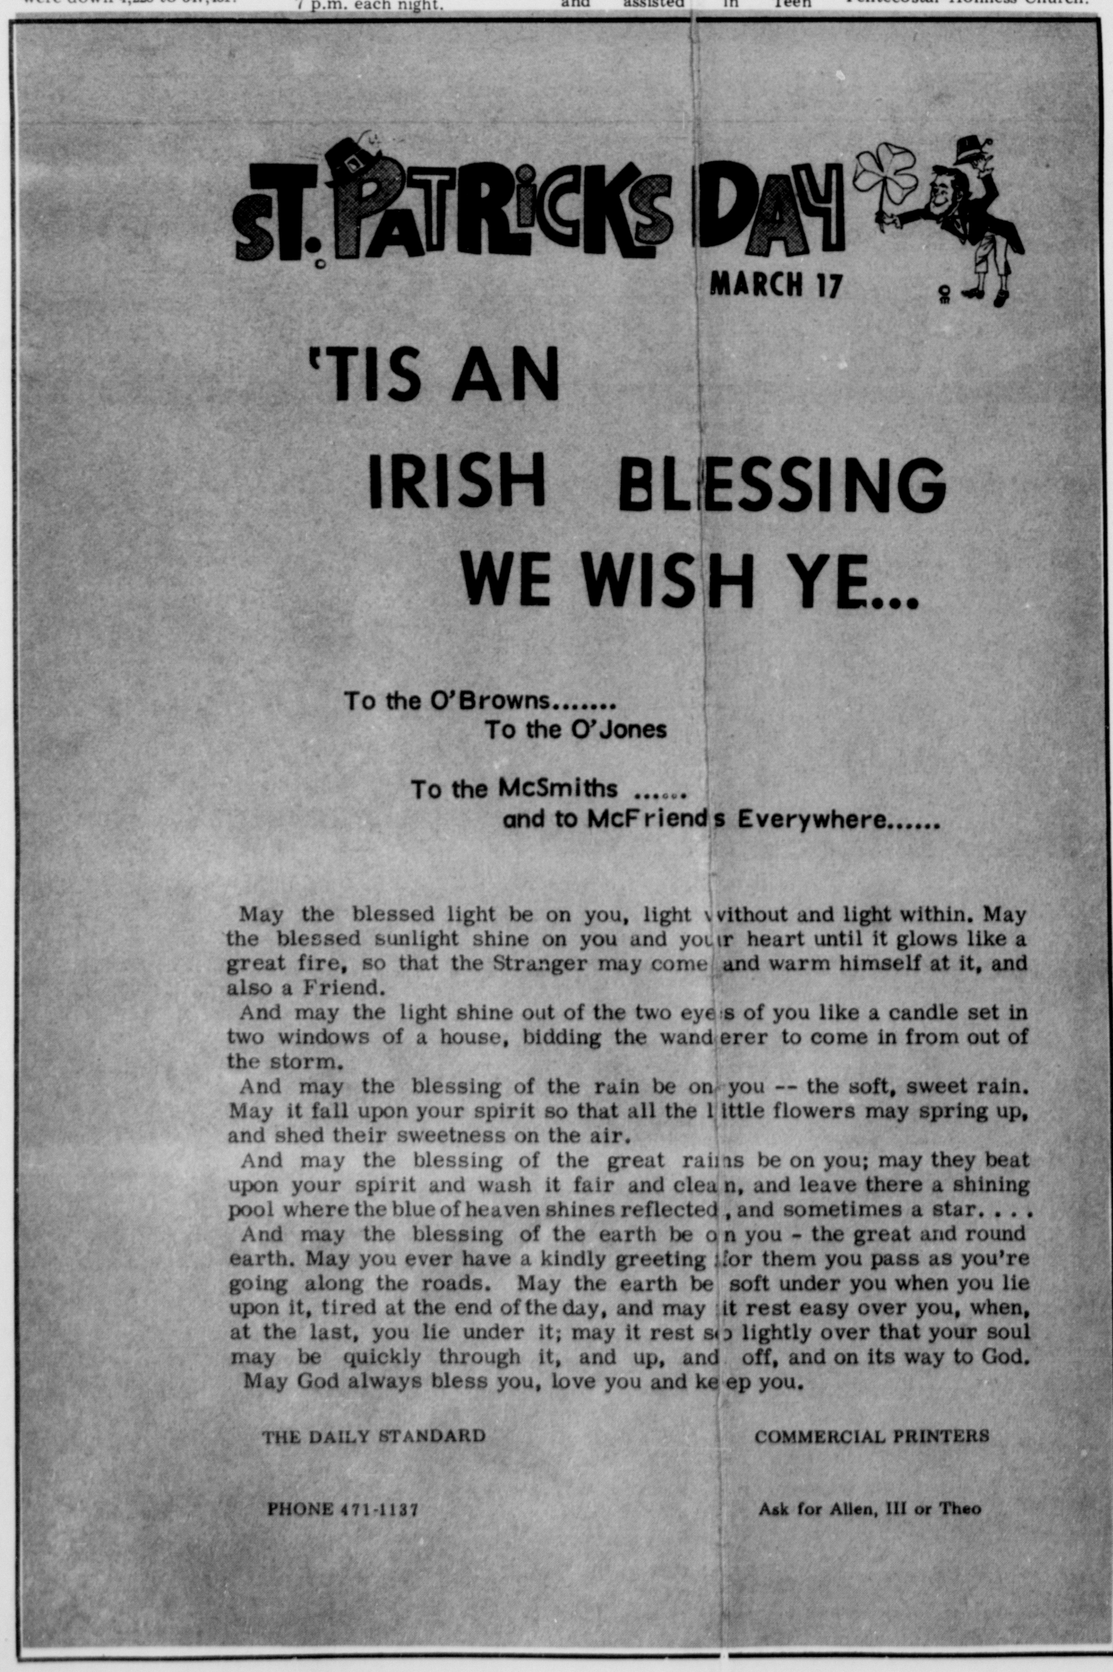

Jackson also has worked in jail and prison ministries in Kansas, Texas and Tennessee.

He hopes to work with those of other faiths who are interested in or want to become a part of the Pentecostal movement.

Tierot Family Sings Tonight

A Gospel singing service at 7:30 tonight at the Pentecostal Holiness Church, 328 West North St., will present the Singing Tierot Family of Oklahoma City, Okla.

The singers are on a tour of Missouri, Tennessee and Arkansas sponsored by the Pentecostal Holiness Church.

Scripture: Acts 4:32-37; Romans 15

THE REDEMPTION FELLOWSHIP

How can the church be a redemptive fellowship that opens its doors to all who seek help, spiritually, socially, or economically? That is today's challenge facing organized religion.

In the early days of the Church's development the members shared their physical possessions. The Scripture tells us that the believers "were of one heart and soul, and no one said that any of the things which he possessed was his own."

Some consider this to be communism. It wasn't. Rather, it was "communal sharing," not a new practice. Examples appear in the Old Testament of groups sharing their property and possessions.

If one views this as communistic he should review recent events in Russia. In 1971 the communistic hostility continued against the religious groups. The Russians continue to restrict religious leaders and imprison them frequently.

Christianity outlived the problems in the days following the Crucifixion; it will outlive today's problems, although the difficulties are acute. There is much interest today in the quasi-religious world, including witchcraft and Satan worship.

The unity reviewed in Acts and Romans gave redemptive fellowship to those persons who had the same goals, had enjoyed the same experiences, and had voiced a passionate desire for a new life. They had united by an inner spirit.

A major challenge faced by this group was to witness to the ressurection. It was inspired by the testimony of the early followers of Christ. If the church was to grow, such testimony had to be publicized about the land.

In order to achieve this goal, all shared everything they had, spiritually and physically.

Last year an intensive "North American Interchurch Study" was conducted by co-operating Protestant denominations to probe the goodwill and giving habits of members.

"Gratitude to God" ranked as the major reason for giving. The majority believed contributions should be continued even though some of the church programs were not acceptable. Few members would withhold contributions because they opposed certain denominational gifts.

Romans is the longest letter Paul wrote. Here he stresses the teaching phase of his theology. And Paul realized that some church members are strong and some weak.

Church leaders faced then, as now, problems of interpreting God's instruction. When it was written "Feed my sheep" what was meant? Did this refer only to feeding a person's spiritual needs or did it also include the practical, the economic need?

The early Church members viewed their group as witnesses to the group. They were not as separated in their theology as denominations are now.

"Worship is an expression of love" and to be effective it needs to be relevant. What is relevant? Today's youths seek to make the church relevant through such groups as the Jesus people.

Our style of presenting religion differs too. "Jesus Christ Superstar" is a production viewed in different aspects. Young persons see it as relevant. Older members may object to what they label the "entertainment" tag.

Persons are able to witness Christ in many ways. Some do in prayer groups; others publicly demonstrate at large rallies of the Billy Graham type.

All believers must share their love for Christ in a learning Church, through fellowship, and in a reverent manner.

Revival To Open Sunday

Missionary To Middle East To Speak Sunday

NEW MADRID — The Rev. Paul S. C. Smith, foreign missionary to Lebanon, Jordan, Gaza and Egypt will speak Sunday at the New Madrid Baptist Church.

Reverend Smith received the bachelor of divinity degree in 1959 from Southern Baptist Seminary. He has pastored churches in Louisiana, Kentucky and Mississippi. He was appointed in 1961 by the foreign mission board to Jordan, where he served as hospital chaplain.

He served as chairman of the Arab Baptist Mission of Lebanon, Jordan, Gaza and Egypt in 1965-66 and 1969-70. He was pastor of Jerusalem Baptist Church in Jerusalem in 1965-66 and mission evangelist from 1963-71.

Rev. Paul S. C. Smith

Nazarene Missionary To Speak At Zone Rally

Miss Geraldine Chappell, missionary to India on furlough, will be speaking at a zone rally at Eastside Church of the Nazarene Monday at 7:30 p.m.

On her fourth furlough since 1941, Miss Chappell will share experiences from the missionary dispensaries and hospitals.

She received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Olivet Nazarene College, Kankakee, Ill., her Registered Nurse training from Samaritan Hospital, Nampa, Idaho, and her Bachelor of Science in Nursing Education at Northwest Nazarene College, Nampa, and the Registered Midwifery degee from Frontier Nursing Service, Hyden, Ky.

Churches of the Nazarene on the southeast zone of the Missouri District include Anniston, Cape Girardeau. Charleston, Matthews, Morehouse, Sikeston Eastside and Sikeston First.

Crusade Planned

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Either the Arena or Busch Memorial Stadium is considered as a probable site for a crusade in St. Louis during 1973 by evangelist Billy Graham, a spokesman for an invitational committee said Sunday.

The Rev. George Scotchmer said the Lower Midwest Billy Graham Invitational Committee was assured over the weekend the evangelist would conduct the crusade here next year.

Rev. and Mrs. Paul Fowler

Revival To End Sunday At Eastside

Vibraharp, piano, accordion and trumpet are accompanying the singing and preaching of the Rev. Paul I. and Sandra Fowler of Woodbury, Ga., this week at the Eastside Church of the Nazarene, Ralph Ave. at Betty St.

Services each evening at 7:30 conclude Sunday at 10:35 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Beginning his ministry in 1966, Rev. Fowler pastored in Georgia and Colorado, then entered full-time evangelism in 1970. The Rev. C. Conrad Carrigan is pastor of the Eastside church.

Graham Films To Be Shown

PORTAGEVILLE — A five-night series of dramatic and documentary films will open next Wednesday at Trinity Baptist Church with the showing of the full-length feature, "The Restless Ones."

Other films in the series, sponsored without admission charge by the church include "The Heart is a Rebel," "Lucia," and "Shadow of the Boomerang," all full-length color features produced by the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association. The films will be shown as listed on consecutive nights at 7:30 p.m. through Sunday.

"His Land," the final film of the series, will be shown on Sunday at 7:30 p.m. In the morning worship service Don Lock of the Billy Graham Film Ministry will speak on Biblical Prophecy as an introduction to the showing of "His Land."

Described as a "musical journey into the soul of a nation," this film depicts life in Israel and relates it to specific biblical prophecy. It was filmed entirely on locaton in Israel and visits such points of interest as Jerusalem, Tel Aviv, the Sea of Galilee and the Mount of Olives.

Cliff Richard, the popular rock music star of England, who was converted during a Graham Crusade, works with Cliff Barrows to provide the music in the film.

The Rev. Jerry Haughton, pastor of Trinity, noted that all five films represent great achievements in the making of films with a distinct Christian message, because they are also quality entertainment. "The Restless Ones," he said, "is an explosive action film that has been shown in hundreds of theaters across the nation, and has had significant impact upon countless thousands of young lives."

He said that "strengthening the spiritual life of the community through meaningful entertainment" is the main reason the church has undertaken the presentation of this unique film series.

'His Land' Showing Set

NEW MADRID — "His Land" a Billy Graham one-hour musical motion picture in color, featuring Cliff Richard, England's singing star, and Cliff Barrows, member of Billy Graham Crusade team, will be shown at the Baptist Church at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

The film is a journey through the Holy Land, Jerusalem, Calilee, Bethlehem, Tel Aviv, and the Negev, relating today's events to the prophecies of the Scriptures.
